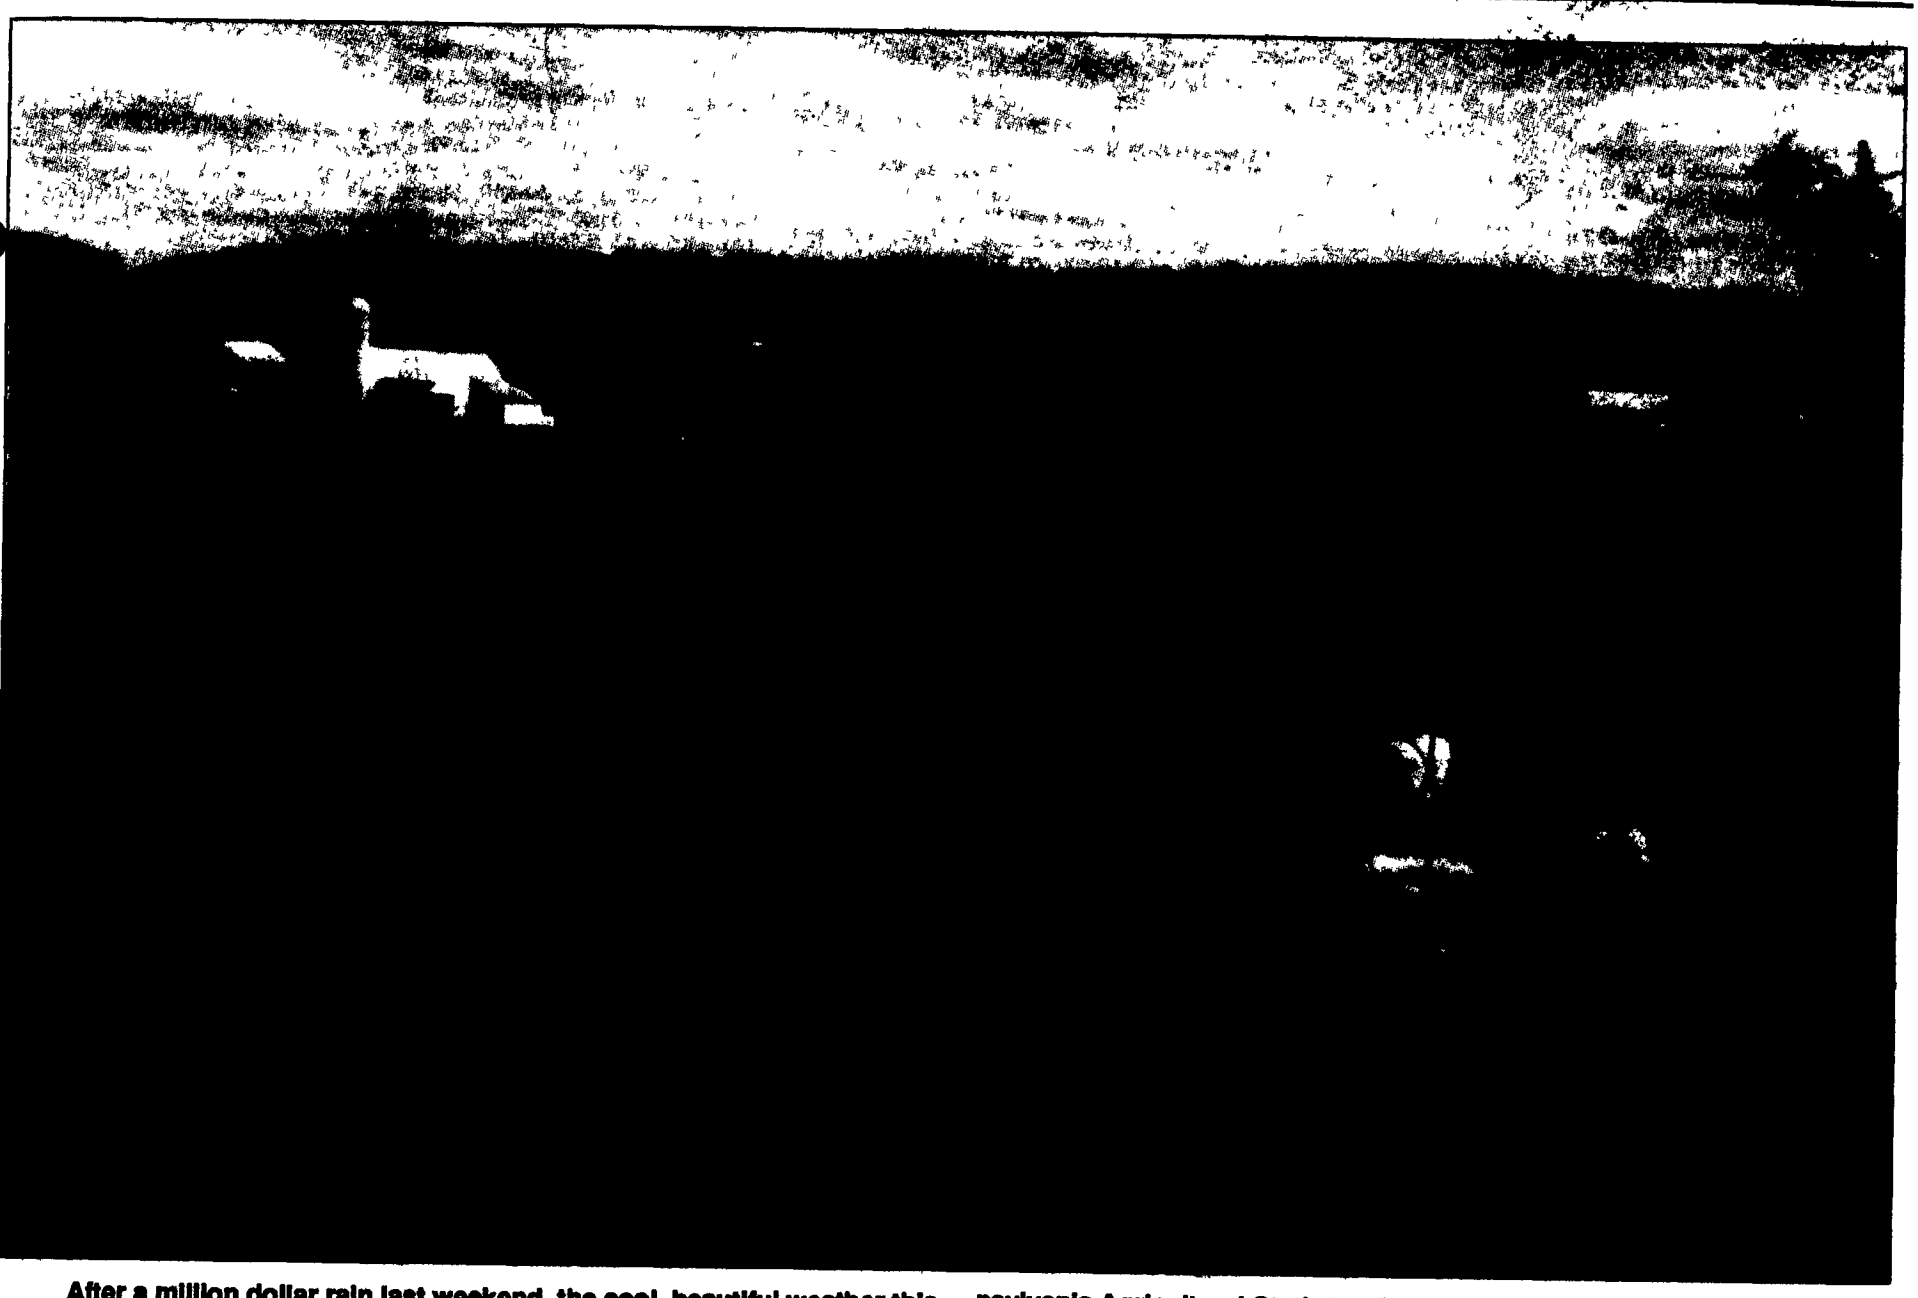
Lancaster Farming

Vol. 42 No. 30 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, May 31, 1997 | $28.50 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy



After a million dollar rain last weekend, the cool, beautiful weather this week gave farmers an excellent chance to plant corn, oats, and soybeans. As for harvesting, hay, haylage, and baleage were going into storage at a rapid pace. And rotational grazing farms were seeing really good pastures for their cows.

The Lancaster County tobacco planting season got under way in earnest this week with farmers in the fields in all sections of the county. The Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service reported a total tobacco production for 1996 at 15,464,000 pounds for both Maryland type 32 and Pennsylvania type 41. Value of the crop was $25 million. The planting scene on the Amish farm in the photo was captured Tuesday afternoon along Usner Road between Hensel Road and Byerstown, northeast of Kinzers. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

Field Application Of Sewage Sludge Is Contentious Issue

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The application of sewage sludge on land has been a contentious issue since it was first practiced.

Contention should probably be expected.

Just as some find the odor of certain animal manures offensive, and yet that of other animals pleasant or nonoffensive, reaction to the application of residue solids from waste water treatment plants on farmlands appears to be strong and personal — whether for or against the practice.

Opponents tend to refer to the material as "sludge," while those who view the practice as recycling and environmentally compatible now refer to the material as "biosolids."

Opponents refer to the odors and toxic and potentially dangerous components, such as heavy metals and viruses, of sewage sludge, while supporters cite beneficial uses of the material's nutrients and organic matter as good soil amendments that can help farmers.

Sewage sludge is the residue from treating human waste water.

Everything that humans flush down a toilet, or wash down a tub, shower or basin drain, as well as industrial waste waters, and other waste can end up in the waste water, and thus in the sludge.

On its surface, the topic — not to mention the material — can scare and horrify people.

But in order to deal with the material in a rational and logical manner, that sense of squeemishness must be put aside.

In an attempt to provide a forum for open discussion of the issue and to provide the public with an update on the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP)

State Police Join Avian Surveillance

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) - State poultry officials reported early Friday morning that no new cases of avian influenza have been found in the systematic testing of all flocks in the quarantined area around Manheim and Mt. Joy. But there is no relaxation of the guard.

As of Wednesday morning, the state police joined the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in enforcing the quarantine. The police will identify vehicles which may be carrying birds, eggs, chicks, or even poultry manure. They will check to make sure any movement in or out of the quarantined area has proper permits issued by PDA. Vehicles without a permit can be fined $100 to $300 and will not be allowed to move their cargo.

Sherbyn Ostrich, director of the state's Bureau of Animal Health, said the main reason to bring in the police is to stress that the poultry industry is faced with a serious, potentially devastating situation.

The results of the latest lab tests were known late Thursday night, and they were reported all negative. Officials said most of the larger flocks had been tested, and they were hopeful the remaining flocks would also test negative. But of course, all flocks will be regularly retested until the quarantine is lifted.

Earlier this month four flocks in Lancaster County tested positive to the virus and a total of 596,000 birds were destroyed for a total loss of $1.5 million. The quick reaction when the first signs of the virus surfaced gives hope that what devastated the state's poultry industry 14 years ago when 17 million birds were destroyed will not happen again.

State Agriculture Secretary Charles Brosius continued to stress

Prices were unchanged to lower. The market tone was mixed from steady to weak, generally steady. Demand was mixed from light to instances fairly good, mostly fair. Supplies were adequate. Shell egg supplies were more available for the diminished demand since most plants planned reduced holiday schedules. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the eastern region for the week ending May 17, 1997 were 3% more than both last week and the same week last year.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
MAY 28, 1997

Wheat bids finished mixed, mostly higher after yesterday's lower close. Indications that Egypt and Pakistan could be in the market for US wheat soon, boosted wheat bids. Some profit taking was noted on the board earlier today based on good winter wheat conditions and spring planting progress. Corn and soybean bids jumped sharply higher due to fund buying on the board. Midwest rains have slowed planting progress but corn is considered 95 percent complete. Soybean meal and oil demand improved somewhat, adding to bean strength. China has become more active in South American markets. Wheat 3 to 6 cents higher except Portland 2 to 3 cents lower. Corn 5 to 7 cents higher. Sorghum 9 to 13 cents higher. Soybeans 15 to 20 cents higher. U.S. Export Sales· Purchaser Commodity Tonnage Del date Nothing new to report. The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JUNE 2-8, 1997

ORTHODOX ASCENSION, JUNE 5.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SOCRATES!

June 5 marks the birthday of Socrates (in around 469 BC), a man who was once considered the wisest in Greece. Though a great philosopher, he never wrote about his life or his ideas but left it to his student Plato. His father was a sculptor and his mother a midwife. In teaching his students, one of Socrates' major tenets was that conscience should be above the law, an idea that later made its way into the mainstream of Christianity. His method of teaching was notable for its use of questions and careful cross-examination, rather than lectures or an imparting of knowledge. He expected his students to think and reason.

No evil can happen to a good man . . .

– Socrates

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Plain yogurt on a damp cloth works well for cleaning piano keys.

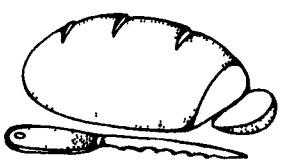
PEACEMAKER SANDWICH

2 long loaves French bread
1/2 teaspoon cayenne
1/2 cup minced fresh parsley
1 pound butter, melted
2 quarts large oysters (about 4 dozen)
2 lemons, thinly sliced

Preheat broiler. Slice top from bread loaves and scoop out centers, discarding crumbs, warm loaves in oven. Add cayenne and parsley to butter and dip oysters in it. Place dipped oysters on broiler pan, and broil 4 inches from heat, turning once, until they are just browned — about 2 minutes for each side. Place oysters in hollowed bread and top with lemon slices. Replace bread slices over top and cut each loaf into quarters, to serve as sandwiches.



Makes 8 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Wet June, dry September.

If on the 8th of June it rain, it foretells a wet harvest, men sain.

A summer fog for fair,
A winter fog for rain,
A fact most everywhere,
In valley and on plain.

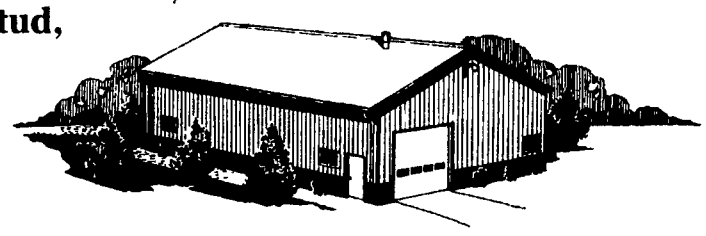
The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative.

OPINION

A Responsible World View

The brakes have been set on the population train, essentially by rising affluence and education. According to Dennis Avery, Center for Global Food Issues, the world's population is now set to peak at 8.5 billion people about 2035, with a slow, gradual decline thereafter.

But the environmental movement has failed to create sizeable numbers of vegetarians. In fact, meat and milk consumption is spreading faster than ever. Thus, to feed that many affluent people, we will need to triple the output of the world's farms. The Center for Global Food Issues recommends we do this through high-yield conservation by:

1. Tripling the yields on existing farmland through additional investments in research, technology, and conservation systems;
2. Tripling the water use efficiency in agriculture (which uses 70 percent of the water we consume) by replacing wasteful flood irrigation with new systems, better water pricing, and water-conserving farming systems like conservation tillage;
3. Planting 5 percent of the wild forest area to high-yield tree plantations that will allow us to harvest ten times the forest products in 2050 with no logging pressure on the 95 percent of the wild forests, and
4. Declaring free trade in farm and forest products so that the best lands can produce the highest yields and leave the most land for nature. (This will especially help the tropical forests in densely-populated Asia.

We must resolve the dilemma between human opportunity and wildlife conservation in the only way possible—by having both.

We are encouraged that environmentalists and conservationists are starting to recognize that the world must get more food from its existing farmlands in the decades just ahead—most importantly to preserve wildlands from a major expansion of low-yield farming. While different interests put emphasis on various research approaches, all are beginning to agree that higher yields are critically important to conservation, especially when you take a responsible world view.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Control Weeds In Alfalfa

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent, states now that the first cutting of alfalfa is in the barn, it is time to think about insuring a good second cutting.

Weeds and insects often decrease the economic and feeding value of the hay crop. The control of pests is essential when they will lower the value of the crop.

Weeds are difficult to control at this time of the year. When summer annual grasses and broadleaf weeds have germinated before the regrowth of alfalfa starts, the herbicide Gramoxone may be used. If grass weeds become a problem after the alfalfa starts to regrow, another herbicide you may use is Poast.

If desirable perennial grasses are present, Poast will also kill them. A careful check of alfalfa fields between cuttings will help to determine if a herbicide is needed.

When weeds do not exist or the number of weeds is low, money may be saved by not spraying.

To Control Leafhoppers

The major insect pest of alfalfa from now until the end of the season is the potato leafhopper, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent.

This insect does not over winter in Pennsylvania. It moves up from the south on storm fronts.

There have been very few storm fronts moving through the area which were capable of bringing the leafhopper. This, along with the very cool weather, may delay the beginning of the leafhopper season this year.

Leafhoppers are very detrimental to alfalfa. As they feed on the alfalfa plant, they inject a toxin which plugs the vascular system of the plant.

Symptoms are a brassy yellow color of plants and stunted growth. New seedings are the most susceptible to damage. Mature plants which have heavy feeding by leafhoppers as regrowth starts are also susceptible to damage. If the regrowth of the alfalfa is under 3 inches, an average of 0.2 or more leafhoppers per sweep of an insect net will result in an economic loss and the field should be sprayed.

Spraying is justified when alfalfa is 3 to 6 inches tall, with an average of 0.5 leafhoppers per sweep; 6 to 8 inches high, an average of 1.0 leafhoppers per sweep; and 8 to 15 inches high, an average of 2 leafhoppers per sweep.

Regular monitoring of fields with an insect net is essential if sprays are to be applied when needed.

To Follow Potato Late Blight Information

During the 1997 growing season, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) will coordinate the Pennsylvania Potato Late Blight Hotline. This service will be part of the 1-800-PENN-IPM telephone information system.

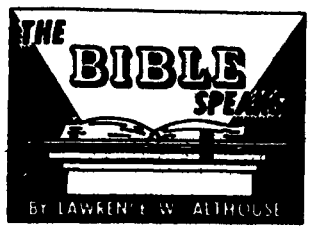
By calling this toll-free number, famers will hear a changing, recorded message about weather conditions and late blight detection in order to help make disease management decisions.

To help potato growers avoid crop loss because of late blight, PDA's Plant Disease Diagnostic Laboratory in Harrisburg will provide free testing of symptomatic plants for farmers whose crop may be infected with late blight.

To obtain directions for collecting and submitting samples, contact PDA Plant Pathologist Nancy Richwine at (717) 787-5609.

Early detection, accurate diagnosis, and access to timely disease and weather information play a key role in successful disease management.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Pride is a personal commitment. It is an attitude which separates excellence from mediocrity."



WILL THE GIFTED PLEASE STAND!

June 1, 1997

Background Scripture:
I Timothy 4:6-16
Devotional Reading:
Psalm 37:1-11

What would happen if, on any given Sunday morning during worship in your church, someone — the Pastor, Lay Leader or anyone else — were to say to the congregation: Will all those among us who are gifted by God please stand up?

What would happen in your church? Would anyone stand up? Would the whole congregation eventually get to their feet? Or would there be a scattering of people here and there throughout the congregation who would stand up somewhat slowly and hesitantly?

You see, I think his challenge would throw a lot of people because most of us don't think of ourselves as being "gifted by God." Oh sure, the preacher may be gifted with sermons, prayers or pastoral care. And there may be one or two soloists in the choir whom we recognize as gifted. But most of us assume there is a big dividing line between "the gifted" and the rest of us. We think we are ordinary people and the truth is that, anyone who is made by God is divinely gifted and certainly not ordinary.

'BEHIND THE DOOR'

This is not a matter of humility. It seems as though we think too little of ourselves to see us as "gifted." But there's more to it than that, for the fact is that, when we think of ourselves as having been "behind the door" when the gifts were handed out by God, we demean Him as Creator not just ourselves. We ignore the gifts he has given to each of us as though our legacy from God is something of sub-value.

I suspect that we fail to recognize the gifts that God places within us and our lives because, by thinking of ourselves as "ordinary," we excuse ourselves from anything but a very ordinary level of living. We persuade ourselves that we don't do more for God because we don't have that much ability to begin with. Somewhere, I came across this anonymous quotation:

It's not what you'd do with a million, if riches should e'er be your lot.

But what are you doing at present, with the dollar and a quarter you've got?

The anonymous author of that verse is talking about money, but what he's saying can be applied to those other nonmaterial gifts which God gives to each of us. Those potentials that we often fail to tap and never exhaust. The writer of I Timothy was speaking, not of money, but of Timothy's God-given gifts, when he counsels him: "Do not neglect the gift you have . . ." (4:14).

God gives each of us various gifts that can be used to witness for Christ and help others. Perhaps we can't write or speak in public and our singing voice cracks and slides off-key, but maybe your gift is that of helping others with their daily tasks, being a bearer of light wherever you go, listening to people and empathizing with them, patiently helping those who need tender care, loving those who seem unlovable — and so on and on. Or maybe you have been given the highest gift of all — love. More precious than any sermon, any solo, or performance of any kind is the gift of love.

All of us can serve God in the way that the writer of I Timothy counsels him: ". . . set the believers an example in speech and conduct, in love, in faith and purity . . ." (4:11). I have been greatly inspired by sermons, deeply moved by spiritual music, and lifted up by discerning prayer. But more important than all of these in my life have been the examples of unsung Christian people who by their speech, conduct, love, faith and purity have made Christian discipleship utterly believable.

Will those gifted by God please stand!

Pasture Walk June 19

FREDERICK, Md. — The next Pasture Walk for Frederick County, Maryland will be Thursday, June 19, from 10 a.m.-noon. Ron and Kathy Holter will be hosting the event.

This is the third year of grazing for Holterholm Farms. They have a variety of perennial grasses established, including orchardgrass, fescue, ryegrass, prairie grass, and reed canarygrass. In addition, white clover, red clover, alfalfa, and chicory are used across the farm. Water is available in every paddock and an all-weather cow lane was installed last year using several different geotextile fabrics.

Feed budgeting will be discussed in detail since the dry spring has many concerned about on-farm feed supplies in a pasture-based system.

The purpose of the Pasture Walk is to allow livestock producers a chance to learn more about the use of rotational grazing as a way to increase agricultural profitability. Most of the time will be spent walking through the pastures discussing plant growth, fencing, watering systems, feed budgeting, and animal performance.

Holterholm Farms is located at 5903 Holter Road. From Jefferson, go north on Holter Road two miles to farm on the right. From Middletown, go south on Route 17 to immediate left onto Franklin Street (this becomes Holter Road). Go three miles to farm on the left.

For more information, contact Stanley W. Fultz, extension agent, dairy science, (301) 694-1594 ext. 3578.

regulations which became effective Tuesday, a group called the Lancaster Heritage and Environment Alliance (LHEA) sponsored a meeting that was to be held 7 p.m. May 30 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center in Lancaster.

According to Anne Goeke, president of LHEA, the LHEA consists of member organizations such as the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Citizens For Responsible Growth, the Conestoga Valley Association, the Historical Preservation Trust, Lancaster County Conservancy, the Sierra Club, the Donegal Chapter of Trout Unlimited, the Muhlenberg Botanical Society, Lancaster Greens, and the Unitarian Universalist Church of Lancaster Environmental Task Force.

The Lancaster Farmland Trust, also a member of LHEA, has abstained from participating in the sewage sludge meeting, but not out of protest, more to distance itself from the issue, according to Goeke.

Five speakers had been scheduled to speak — Tom Sweeney, a soil scientist involved with the DEP sewage sludge program (old and new); Dr. Tim Lutz, a geochemist with Westchester University of Pennsylvania; Hugh Kaufman, an employee of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA); retired analytical chemist Stanford Tackett; and Jay Snyder, operator of the Ephrata Area Waste Water Treatment Plant.

They were scheduled to speak until later Thursday, when Snyder, who for several years has been a proponent of applying "biosolids" on local farmland, said he wasn't going to participate because he felt that LHEA stacked the speakers with discreditable oppositionists.

According to Snyder, he backed out of the lineup of speakers because he felt that the program was stacked against him as a proponent of land application of sewage sludge.

He said that from an educational resume perspective he was not fairly matched against doctorateholders and researchers; and he also said that the speakers who are known to oppose applying sewage sludge onto land were not credible spokespeople.

For example, he said he was opposed to sharing the stage with scheduled opposition speaker Hugh Kaufman, who works for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in Washington DC.

Snyder provided a copy of a 1996 letter from assistant EPA administrator Robert Perciaspepe that states that Kaufman represents only himself, and not the agency, on the issue of biosolids.

The letter reaffirms EPA's support of the regulations as protecting the safety of the environment, and emphasizes that the EPA regulations were created using science.

"Mr. Kaufman is an employee in EPA's Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response. He is not an employee of EPA's Office of Water which is responsible for the Agency's biosolids program," Percaispepe stated in a late February 1996 letter to Dr. Richard Kuchenrither, president of the Water Environment Federation in Alexandria, Va.

"I assure you that Mr. Kaufman has not been authorized to present the Agency's views in this area and that his statements about the use and disposal of biosolids represent personal views and not those of the Agency."

That letter was made in response to a letter from Kuchenrither to the EPA stating concern for Kaufman's statements about sewage sludge dangers.

It must be noted, however, that Kuchenrither's non-for-profit organization has a mission, "to preserve and enhance the global water environment," and it has a contract with the EPA to produce educational fact sheets. It provided some on the beneficial uses of biosolids.

Snyder also said that scheduled speaker Stanford Tackett, who worked for the Indiana University of Pennsylvania as a researcher tracking down the availability and impact of lead in the environment, was also not the expert the meeting presented him to be.

Snyder had a copy of court documents that comment negatively on Tackett's area of expertise with regard to its applicability to biosolids.

On the other hand, Tackett, as a doctor of analytical chemistry, spent years researching the toxic metal lead in its various forms in the environment.

And while Kaufman was not reached for comment, a member of one of the organizations involved with the alliance contacted Lancaster Farming this week, after becoming aware of the interest in publicizing the meeting.

According to K.Aubrey Hottell, with the Conestoga Valley Association, who is currently working on completing a bachelor's degree in science at Millersville University, she is vigorously opposed to applying sewage sludge as a beneficial soil amendment.

She said she suspects a conflict of interest by those, such as Snyder, whose livelihood directly benefits from being able to spread sewage sludge on farmland.

Snyder said that he suggested that a Penn State University Extension researchers sit in his stead as a speaker, though he said that wasn't accepted.

The issue is apparently contentious because both sides are able to claim the use of science to support their positions, and neither side has enough science to completely refute statements by the other side.

However, that's the nature of science. The scientific method doesn't allow for making absolute statements or conclusions without irrefutable proof.

At the same time, it depends on intuition and hypothesis in order to advance and begin and develop a proper investigation.

However the meeting ended, Goeke said it was known to be a topic worthy of investigation and debate, and one that had strong opponents and proponents.

She maintained that the only agenda of the LHEA was to provide a forum for both sides of the issue and subissues.

It also was to provide an opportunity for the state Department of Environmental Protection to present its new regulations concerning sewage sludge land applications.

Helen Moyer, a representative of the Lancaster League of Women Voters, was to have served as panel moderator in the two-hour forum.

According to Sweeney, with DEP, he intended to discuss a little of the old program and the changes under the new program.

In brief, he said that the new program allows less permitting paperwork by the state, less submission to a state office of paperwork by the company applying sewage sludge, and higher limits of the heavy metals and chemicals of concern.

Sweeney explained that while the paperwork requirements for both the state and the regulated industry would be less, the requirement to keep documentation and to make it available to DEP upon demand, on site, would increase.

He said that the program changed departments under the DEP (which is only two years old and still undergoing some changes to tackle programs initiated under the old DER).

He said that since there are inspectors already in the field looking at treatment plants, that they are to get the added responsibility of inspecting records for sludge applications and to make sure documentation is done properly.

The permits issued under the new system will be fewer, but the amount of information required will not decrease. There is expected to be no lessening of oversight by the state for keeping track of the farms involved, but each farm property won't have to be permitted separately.

The allowing of higher levels of heavy metals and other chemicals before land is no longer suitable to receive sludge is a reflection of federal standards set by the EPA. Sweeney explained that when Pennsylvania set its initial standards it didn't have the expertise and resources, or risk assessment analysis, that the EPA has had in developing its levels.

That potentially may allow a farm closed under the old system to be repermitted, but Sweeney said there have been very few farms every closed down from receiving the set limit of metals.

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The first Brazil-American Jersey Sale was held in Sao Paulo, Brazil on April 26, 1997.

The sale averaged $8,811.55 on 38 lots. This is the highest average in history for a Jersey consignment sale.

The 38 lots of cows and heifers were consigned by 26 U.S. Jersey breeders from nine states. The sale was a joint project between the Brazil Jersey Cattle Association, Pinheiro Machedo Ltd, Brazil; American Marketing Service, Va.; and the American Jersey Cattle Association.

Topping the sale at $30,491 was BW Duncan Chief 1265, EX-90%, consigned by Brentwood Farms, Orland, Calif. "1265" has a projected mature equivalent (ME) of 27,962 pounds milk, 1,252 pounds fat and 957 pounds protein.

SSF Legendary Felicia, consigned by Charles Luchsinger, Syracuse, N.Y., was the second-highest selling animal. The final bid was $24,845 for the 2-year-old daughter of Schultz Performing Legend. Felicia's" dam has a two-lactation mature equivalent (ME) average of 17,162 pounds milk, 843 pounds fat and 706 pounds protein.

A daughter of Rocky Hill Sky Line, Skyline Lauren, EX-93%, consigned by McKee Jerseys, Faunsdale, Ala., was the third high-selling animal. "Lauren" brought $23,151. "Lauren" has a projected ME of 23,386 lbs. milk, 981 lbs. fat, and 856 lbs. protein.

The sale was the highlight of the weekend event which began on April 25 with seminars conducted by representatives of the American Jersey Cattle Association.

Dick Clauss, president, discussed the success of Hilmar Cheese Company of which he is the chairman of the board.

Michael Hurst, director of field service, spoke about the AJCA type appraisal system.

Calvin Covington, executive secretary, talked to the group about increasing the value of and demand for Jersey milk.

The U.S. Jersey combines efficient milk production, a strong will to milk, and the ability to adapt to a wide range of climates and management situations with the highest quality milk to make her a profitable dairy cow for dairy producers around the world.

Chester Clean, Green Meetings Set

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Now that reassessment is finished for Chester County, agricultural landowners who qualify have until August 1 this year to apply for the state's Clean and Green Act 319 preferential tax program in order to qualify for the 1998 tax year.

Deciding whether or not to participate in the Clean and Green Program, or the Act 515 program, and how to apply can be confusing.

According to a news release, a series of informative meetings have been scheduled by the Chester County Agricultural Development Council and Agricultural Land Preservation Board.

The purpose of the meetings is to provide as much information as necessary to help the county's agricultural land owners to make decisions benefitting them and the continuation of land devoted to agricultural purposes.

Discussions are to include a comparision between Act 319 and Act 515; assessment valuations under Act 319 and Act 515; renegotiation of the Act 515 covenant to the Act 319 covenant; the affects on millages; and the application procedures.

The meetings are specifically designed to help those who attend have their questions answered, and also to provide assistance for those who wish to participated in the Act 319 program.

All handouts and materials regarding the acts, which are available from the tax assessment office are to be available at the meetings.

The meetings are all scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

On Tuesday June 3, a meeting is to be held at the Russellville Grange, at Old Rt. 10 and Rt. 896, in Upper Oxford Township.

On June 9, a pending meeting, subject to confirmation (call Charlene Briggs with the Chester County Planning Commission at (610) 344-6285) is to be held at the Unionville Grange.

On June 12, a meeting has been set to be held at the Honey Brook Grange, located at Rt.10 and Mount Pleasant Road, in Honey Brook.

On June 18, a meeting is to be held at the Fremont Grange, located along Fremont Road, south of Lees Bridge Road, in Fremont, which is located in West Nottingham Township.

High Nitrates In Water, Poor Soil Conditions Lead To Changes At Weaver Farm

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Sixteen years ago, when Don Weaver's daughter Heidi was born, the family knew something was wrong.

Heidi came into the world suffering from brain damage. The cause? Nobody knew.

As a result, Heidi, a diagnosed autistic child, grew up with special needs. The family, including Don's wife, Linda, and the others in the dairy partnership, including Don's brother Nelson and his wife, Joyce, tried to reason what could have caused the problem.

They had no answers.

Don said his doctor suggested that maybe something was wrong with the water.

Don decided to have the water tested.

That's when they knew they were onto something.

While the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) allows almost 10 parts per million of nitrates, the water was testing five times that amount. Don suspected that his wife, Linda, was drinking their nitrate-contaminated wellwater at conception. He had wondered for years why he was having health problems with the herd — including downed cattle. As a result, a new well was dug. In addition, Don took his family off of the well and gave them bottled water to drink.

In the years since, Don and his brother Nelson completely rethought and reorganized their farming operation. They switched to a more strict crop rotation. They stopped applying manure where possible and began shipping it to other farms. They used soil microbial additives.

They claim their strategies worked.

"We're not saying we fixed that water," said Don during a tour at his farm last week. "Maybe all of us in our community fixed it."

Don and Nelson attribute a great deal of improvements made to the care of the soil to improved crop yields, better herd health, and family peace of mind.

Don and his brother and families combined make up Weaver Homestead Farm located northwest of New Holland. After time away from the farm, Don said he returned to the dairy in 1980 after he realized that life was "not necessarily greener elsewhere," he said.

Don and Nelson spoke last week at a tour conducted by Rodale Institute and sponsored by funds from the USDA Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) program. About 34 extension members and agri-industry representatives from six states attended.

In 1980, the Weaver Homestead Farm was made part of a partnership with the Weaver brothers and their families. It consists of 110 acres (about 95 tillable) and about 100 dairy cows (80 milking). Homestead Nutrition Inc, a business managed by Don, is also part of the partnership.

The Weaver Homestead has been in the family for nine generations. Don said it is part of a 3,000-acre land grant from William Penn in 1721 to three Weaver brothers from Germany.

"We were given the soil and land to treasure and care for," said Don at the tour.

The farm was purchased by the partnership from Don's father, John, in 1980, when John retired. The farm has been a dairy for quite some time.

The herd size has stayed the same since 1980. The Weavers farm 100 acres and have 200 head, including dry and milking cows and calves.

Don spoke about the "journey" the farm took after high water nitrates played a role in the challenges Heidi faces and the problems with dairy herd health.

Don Weaver, right, and his brother Nelson and families combined make up Weaver Homestead Farm located north of New Holland. After time away from the farm, Don said he returned to the dairy in 1980 after he realized that life was "not necessarily greener elsewhere," he said.

The journey has not only involved a diverse crop rotation of three years alfalfa followed by corn silage followed by a rye cover crop, then into soybeans and finally to high moisture shelled corn. Shallow tillage using a rotary hoe is used to keep organic matter close to the soil surface. Biological breakdown of manure in the soil, as well as in the liquid manure itself, is used.

In addition, herbicide and insecticide use has been cut back. Don said the farm managers are "willing to live with a few weeds" to control costs.

On the alfalfa fields, manure is applied in the fall at 6,500-9,500 gallons per acre. At the time, the soil microbial product is added, and the ground is moldboard plowed. Alfalfa is spring-seeded at 20 pounds per acre. No pesticides are used.

On the corn fields, the microbial product is applied to the soil in the fall. Manure is applied in the spring at 6,500 gallons per are. After the manure dries, it is chiseled 5-6 inches deep. No pesticides are applied. The rotary hoe is used 5- 7 days after planting and again one week later. Cultivation is used twice along with some spot spraying where necessary.

Rye is planted after silage corn and prior to soybeans.

Manure is applied at 7,000 gallons per acre. The soil microbial product is applied in the fall. A chisel or disc is used to prepare the ground and the rye is drilled in. The crop is harvested as ryelage.

On soybean ground, a moldboard plow or offset disc is used. Corn planting is on 30-inch rows. A rotary hoe and cultivator are each used twice.

Nelson said a recent manure analyses indicated there is close to 40 units of nitrogen per 1,000 gallons.

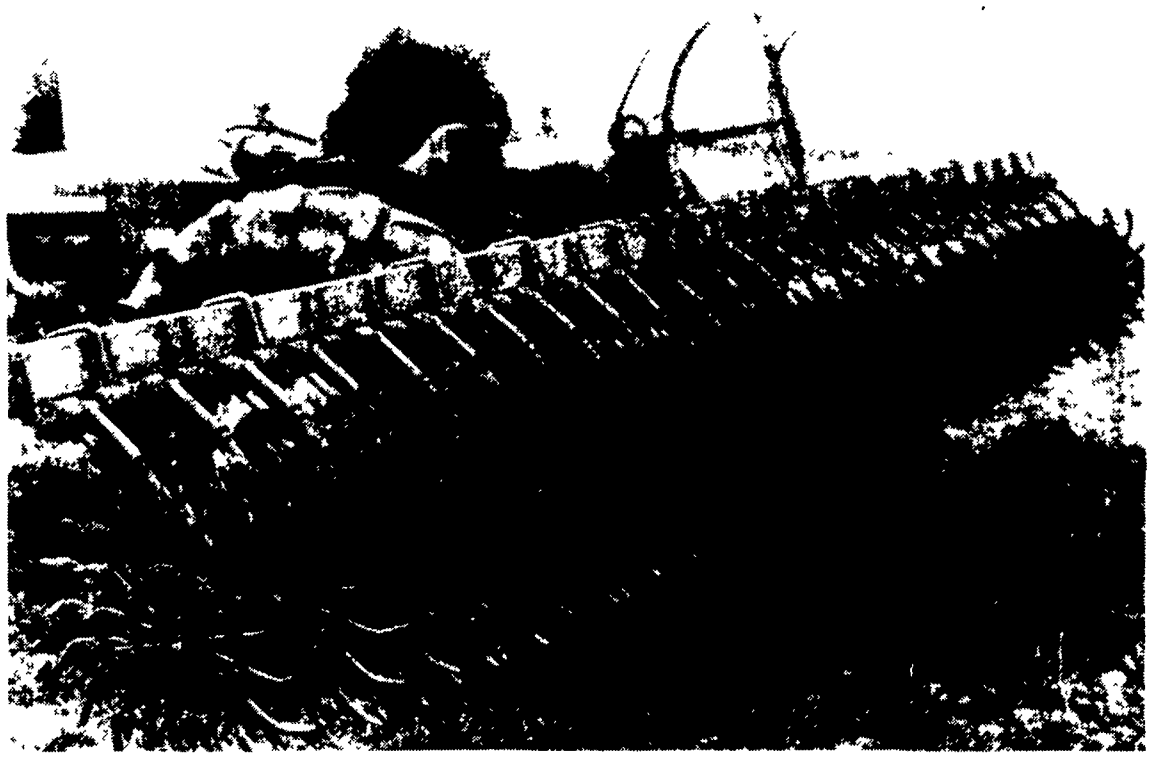
"Manure is a bonus but it's also a negative," said Don Weaver. "On our farm, it's a problem to know how to manage it. We just get too much. We get neighbors to do the hauling."

What he recommends to his clients is the "best thing you can do is put mattresses in" for cow comfort, he noted. "I've heard guys say, take my mixer, I'll keep my mats." Don said that the best cow comfort doesn't come from the regular rubber stall mats, but "mattresses."

Overall, the use of more length of forage together with a special cow TMR program has garnered the grade Holstein herd an average of 21,847 pounds of milk on DHIA at 775 pounds of fat and 695 pounds of protein. Milking is from a tiestall to a pipeline twice a day. The Weavers are cooperators with Land O' Lakes.

As for the improvements, Don is uncertain of the results.

"We don't know if we did this and the water is better," he said. "We really don't know how the problems happened." But, he noted, many farmers are using these practices and all may have contributed to the improvements.



Shallow tillage using a rotary hoe is used to keep organic matter close to the soil surface. Biological breakdown of manure in the soil, as well as in the liquid manure itself, is used.

To Hold MUN Educational Meeting

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Pa. DHIA recently received a tremendous amount of interest in its Milk Urea Nitrogen testing program from Lancaster County dairymen.

In order to accommodate this response, Pa.DHIA has set up an informational MUN meeting to be held 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., Wednesday, June 11, at the Leola Family Restaurant.

The restaurant is located along Rt.23 in Leola. Lunch will be provided.

The featured speaker for the meeting is to be George Cudoc, farm manager for Marburger Dairy, in Evans City. Cudoc recently stated that, "Using the MUN results analyzed by Pa.DHIA has saved me $8,000 per year in just protein savings alone, which pays for milk testing services two-fold.

"The culling rate has dropped from 35 percent to 18 percent within the time frame of 1996, while days-to-first service dropped from 90 to 79 days, while the conception rate improved dramatically from 28 to 49 percent."

Other speakers are to include Jim Boyer, manager of the Pa.DHIA Dairy Records Processing Center; Dixie Burris, Pa.DHIA lab manager; and Dave Slusser, Pa.DHIA general manager.

All dairymen, nutritionists and veterinarians from Lancaster and surrounding counties are invited to attend this informational meeting.

Please feel free to contact Pa.DHIA at 1-800-344-8478 if you have any questions concerning MUN testing, or want a Pa.DHIA representative to visit your farm to explain the many options available to today's modern dairymen.

Farmland Unites Customers, Producers For Information Exchange

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — In a first-of-its-kind event, Farmland Industries, Inc. recently hosted a conference that brought together the cooperative's key customers from around the world for an information exchange with the cooperative system's leaders, including local cooperative managers and producers.

With more than 200 participants, this was the first time all segments of the food chain — from the farm to the table — have been brought together in an effort to help foster and strengthen business relationships. Farmland customers throughout North America and across the globe, representing businesses in meat and grain industries, gathered in Kansas City May 14-15 to discuss how the Farmland Cooperative System can better meet their needs.

"The conference provided an opportunity for Farmland customers to better understand the benefits of doing business with our system and a chance for us to listen to their needs," said H.D. Cleberg, Farmland president and CEO. "We put customers face-to-face with people who produce their products which is something no other company can do. Within our system, we can focus on customers' needs directly, allowing us to better serve them, and to help producers and local co-ops run better businesses."

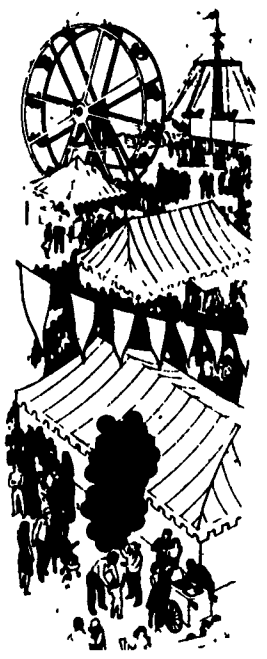
"Most farmers want their independence, but interdependence is the key," said Phil Dukes, general manager of First-Cooperative Association in Marathon, Iowa. "Farmers need leverage to economically produce commodities and gain access to global markets. Farmland offers opportunities for independent producers to capitalize on the benefits of being part of an integrated system. This is good for farmers and for our rural communities."

Customers attending the conference said they thought some of the biggeest challenges faced by an ag supply and food company were to consistently provide quality products that are safe, readily available, and economical for both the customer and the consumer.

This is why brands that represent those qualities have become increasingly important to consumers. Customers said they seek this added equity in the brand and that Farmland's "Proud to be farmer-owned®" slogan adds value to their end-products.

"And that stamp of quality goes with all of our products, from bulk grains for processing to our case-ready meats for retail distribution," said Cleberg. "We realize our customers have many choices and because of this, they will align themselves with suppliers who are the most responsive and dependable. In a global market, we need to truly understand the culture of our customers in order to serve their needs."

At the closing of the conference, Cleberg asked the gathering of key players to serve as the Farmland System Advisory Group. The group will continue the dialogue which began at the conference, offering ideas and recommendations to keep Farmland System cooperatives and producers focused on the needs of the customer.



Two Honored By ADPI

CHICAGO, Ill. — Two men were recently honored by the American Dairy Products Institute for their life-long dedication and contributions to the the United States dairy industry.

Donald C. Storhoff, president of Foremost Farms USA, and Robert E. Vaughn, who served for more than 45 years with the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative, were both selected by the APDI as recipients of its 1997 award of merit honorees.

The announcement was made recently at the ADPI annual meeting at the Fairmont Hotel in Chicago, Illinois.

The APDI award of merit was established in 1991 to recognize individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the processed dariy products industry.

Storhoff was cited for his depth of knowledge and vision of industry needs that led him into key roles in formulating national dairy policy with a focus on the development of international markets for dairy products during his 40-year span of industry service.

He is a past president of the Whey Products Institute, and the first president of the American Dairy Products Institute.

He has also been recognized as the cooperative builder of the year by the Wisconsin Federation of Cooperatives, as well as being named the dairy industry person of the year at the World Dairy Expo.

Vaughn was recognized for his innovative leadership, depth of comprehension of the abilities, contributions and needs of colleagues and subordinates, and devotion to the advancement of industry progress.

Among his leadership achievements are serving as president of the ADPI; treasurer of the Dairy Export Incentive Program Coalition; serving on the Executive Committee of the National Milk Producers Federation; president of the Maryland Council of Farmer Cooperatives; and as a member of the Maryland and Washington DC chapter of the Dairy Technology Society.

Holstein Field Day

June 12, 1997

The annual Lancaster County Holstein Field Day will be held on Thursday, June 12, 1997 at Spruce-Edge Farm, the home of Ed, Arlene, Brian, and Jill Harnish. The Harnish's 60 cow herd averages 22,600 pounds of milk. They also farm 225 acres of corn, alfalfa, soybeans, wheat, and barley. The evening will begin at 7:00 PM, as always there will be a few classes to judge, and door prizes, but the best part of the evening is that it's free! Thanks to Powl's Feed Service of Peach Bottom who will be sponsoring a pig roast with all of the trimmings catered by Weik's Custom Butchering. Our club will take care of topping off our delicious meal with dessert. So bring the whole family along with your lawn chairs for a great evening of food, friends, and fellowship! Please call reservations in by June 1, they can be made with the Harnishes at 529-2712 or Kalvin Hatch at 397-5505.

Follow Rt. 896 South of Strasburg. Harnishes are located exactly 10 miles South of the light in Strasburg From the town of Nine Points they are 1 mile South on Rt. 896, 1st farm on the right.

We Need You!

The Holstein Club including the Junior Club will be having a fund-raiser by operating the food stand at the Amazing Corn Maze owned by Jack and Donna Coleman, from Tuesday, August 19 through Saturday, August 23. It's a great chance for our club to raise some money, doing away with the traditional cheese sale for this year. Volunteers are needed throughout the week to sell hot dogs, hamburgers, and roasted corn. The maze is open from 11:00 AM until dusk Profits will be shared with the Junior club to help with their activities. Gather up your friends, and come help flip some burgers, run through the maze while you're there too! Call Lowell Brubaker at 653-2612.

Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Ducks Unlimited Form Partnership

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The Chesapeake Bay Foundation and Ducks Unlimited Inc. have announced the formation of a 10-year partnership to restore wetlands and stream buffers in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Both organizations are nonprofit and were formed to protect irreplaceable natural resources.

For years Ducks Unlimited purchased and leased land in Canada to create nesting habitat for migratory waterfowl. It also conducted waterfowl habitat enchancement and research projects.

Based in Memphis, Tenn., the 60-year-old DU has more than 900,000 supporters. It has identified that Chesapeake Bay as its highest priority in the Atlantic Flyway and critical to the long-term sustainability of many species of wild waterfowl.

Since 1987, DU has protected, restored and enhanced more than 40,000 acres of habitat in the Bay region.

CBF, with more than 84,000 members, has established a goal of increasing 125,000 acres of wetlands in the Bay watershed by 2005.

The Chesapeake Bay Foundation was formed to support and conduct work designed to protect and restore the Chesapeake Bay.

Both groups conduct public awareness campaigns about their mission and goals.

According to a news release, the agencies are seeking to work together to help organize and carry out wetlands and habitat enhancement projects.

The restoration partnership is to work with federal and state conservation program money by bringing landowners to the programs and by providing technical, financial and managerial expertise to the projects.

According to the news release, "Most of the promising restoration work is found on farmland, so farmers are important to the program.

"Prior to the realization of the importance of wetlands, many wetlands were drained and turned into pastures or croplands. With the voluntary participation of farmers, the converted wetlands can be re-established and the natural wetland community reclaimed. Landowners realize the benefits of improved water quality, wildlife habitat and, in many cases, tax credits."

Between this spring and December 1998, the partnership's goal is to restore 3,800 acres of wetlands, 1,150 acres of upland habitat (primarily warm season grass plantings), and 34 miles of river and stream banks.

Ed Temple, a former wildlife biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, is to be in charge of the joint project and work out of the CBF office in Maryland, with help from staff in the three states.

The early projects are expected to require nearly $500,000 from the two organizations, and use another $1 million from government conservation programs and participating landowners.

During the next five years, the partnership plans to restore more than 10,000 acres of wetlands and 120 miles of stream banks to improve water quality in the Bay region.

The restoration goals will grow as the partnership continues and as the program takes root.

The Chesapeake Bay watershed has lost more than 60 percent of its historical wetlands, nd both CBF and DU have identified restoring them as critical to the Bay's long term health.

Wetlands and stream buffers reduce sediment, nitrogen, and phosphorus flowing into the Bay, leading to improved water clarity, a ciritical requirement for the return of underwater grasses that support waterfowl, fish and shellfish.

The two conservation groups formalized the partnership with the recent signing of a memorandum of understanding at the Tayloe Unit of the Rappahannock River Valley National Wildlife Refuge in Richmond County, Va.

The site of an ongoing wetlands restoration project, the Tayloe site offers an example of the type of work the CBF-DU partnership intends to help facilitate.

"This restoration work is critically important to the Bay," said William C. Baker, CBF president. "We have halted the Chesapeake's rapid decline and have reached a decision point.

"We need to reclaim resources that give the Bay resilience — including its wetlands, stream buffers, and oyster beds. If we don't, the Bay will deteriorate as the watershed's population grows.

"We are especially excited to have Ducks Unlimited, the premier non-profit wetlands and waterfowl conservation organization in the world, as our partner in this work," he said.

According to Dr. Alan Wentz, group manager of DU conservation programs, said, "Concentrating our restoration efforts in the upper reaches of the watershed will not only increase habitat for waterfowl and wetland wildlife, but also have some of the greatest benefits for improving the water quality in the Bay.

"The Chesapeake Bay is one of our most important programs in our mid-Atlantic restoration initiative."

New Award For Trainers

NEW LONDON (Chester Co.) — A new award this year recognizes the trainer bringing the most competitors to the KA Equestrian Center-Grazing Acres Horse Shows.

The prize of $100 will take into account all entries from the six shows in the series. (Dawn McCuen of KA Equestrian is excluding herself from this competition.)

A trainer who brings a large group to one show has as good a chance of winning as a trainer with fewer entries over several shows, and vice versa.

These open schooling shows feature halter, hunter, pleasure, and western classes. In addition to series prizes, cash prizes are provided in pleasure and hunter divisions at each show.

Shows are scheduled July 13 and October 12 at KA Equestrian Center on Derry Meeting Road in Cochranville, and on June 15 and Sept. 7 at Grazing Acres Farm on New London-Lewisville Road in New London.

Call (610) 255-5009 or (610) 869-0746 for information and prize lists.

Add Elderberries To Your Fruit Garden

Pie, jelly and jam enthusiasts love the unusual taste of elderberries. Occassionally used in wine making, wild or home grown elderberries are very hardy. Since they are easy to grow, elderberries have a great potential in landscape plantings.

Elderberries contain more phosphorus, potassium and calcium than any other temperate fruit crop. The fruit is also rich in vitamin C.

Elderberries, although quite adaptable, perform best on a moist, fertile, well-drained soil. They tolerate a wide range of soil conditions, including variation in texture, fertility and acidity. However, do not expect good performance on wet ground.

Prepare the site as you would for any planting. Destroy perennial weeds, and avoid scattering weed seeds. Cultivate the soil, and get a soil test to determine pH. Add amendments if the pH falls beyond 5.5-6.5. Compost or manure may be incorporated into the ground at this point; this is particularly helpful with light sandy soils.

Elderberries belong to the genus Sambucus. Individual flowers are small, white and borne in large compound cymes. They are nearly self-unfruitful; two cultivars must be planted in the same vicinity to provide cross-pollination.

A number of good 5 to 6 foot tall bush cultivars are available. The Adam's series Adam #1 and #2 are two old cultivars selected from the wild by the New York State Experiment Station in 1926. They produce large fruit clusters of black-purple berries. Fruit matures in early September. Other cultivars produce very large berry clusters including York, Johns, Kent, Nova, Scotia, and N.Y. 21. York is somewhat more productive than the Adams series, and berries tend to be larger.

Elderberries should be planted in the spring. Place plants in the soil as soon as they arrive from the nursery to prevent desiccation. Set plants 10 feet apart between rows, and six to 10 feet apart within rows. Because elderberries are shallow rooted, care should be taken to drying out during the first season. As a general rule, if rain is lacking for more than a week, plants should be thoroughly watered.

Elderberries respond well to fertilization. In addition to incorporation manure or compost at planting time, fertilize plants in the early spring of each year. Apply ammonium nitrate at the rate of ¼ lb. per year of the plant's age, with a limit of 1 lb. per plant. If a soil test indicates low fertility use one half lb. 20% superphosphate of 1/10 lb. muriate of potash.

Elderberries are shallow-rooted. Do not cultivate deeper than 2 inches. After the first year, avoid disturbing the soil at all, as the slightest injury may damage the fibrous root system, or kill one of the new upright shoots. Hand-pull weeds while they are still small. Mow weeds rather than cultivate. Mulches help in controlling weed growth as well.

Second year elderberry canes produce the most fruit, while older wood tends to lose vigor and become weak in the third or fourth year. Elderberries send up many new canes each year. The canes usually attain full height in one season, developing lateral branches in the second. Pruning practices have been developed with this pattern in mind.

Prune plant in the dormant season (late winter or early spring). Leave an equal number of one, two and three year old canes. Remove all canes older than three years.

Elderberries are generally pest free. Use them in landscape plantings by making an orchard screen fence or a hedge. The fruit attracts many types of birds. For this purpose clip like a hedge one or two times a year.

In some years, powdery mildew becomes a problem, particularly when it affects the fruit. Fruit is harvested from late August through early September, depending on cultivar.

Cows surround the portable milking parlor, ready to be milked. The cows learn and enjoy the outdoor milking operation.

At Deep Creek Farm
The Cows Have Gone Back To Nature

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

WHITEFORD, Md. - For Dan Delp, Deep Creek Farm, near Whiteford, Maryland, farming has become a way to take advantage of what the land will easily give, and what the local market will accommodate. It wasn't always this way. Delp had a high producing Registered Holstein herd, and used all the conventional methods to get high yields from his fields and high production from his cows. And he was succesful.

But a change in his situation brought about a herd dispersal and a turn to rotational grazing, low input farming and an almost holistic way of looking at farming and his involvement with it.

To complete this turn to natural dairy farming, Delp developed a portable milking parlor that he takes to the fields morning and evening. In addition, he put the herd on a seasonal milking schedule that has his cows all dry between Christmas and mid-March.

Whenever possible, native grasses are over-seeded with clover, and rye is used for spring and fall pasture. Sometimes the rye is allowed to reseed itself to save some cost of planting. For this operation, no exotic, expensive grasses are used. Even alfalfa is considered to expensive to be ideal.

A row of cows ready to be milked.

Ideally, the cows go through the milking parlor every 12 hours onto a new pasture strip, leaving behind any accumulation of manure and fly larva that is normally associated with confinement and drylot operations.

The cows are bred or bought to freshen mostly in March or April with a few coming throughout the season to keep the milk tank full. At Christmas all cows are dried-up or sold if they are milking to much and the dry herd is maintained from Christmas through March on sweet corn husks bought from a nearby processing plant for $2.00 per ton. The husks are stored in a large bunk silo located beside the winter pole barn and the cows help themselves to the silage with no extra handling of the feed. Ground ear corn is used to maintain body condition on the dry cows.

No replacement heifers are raised. Bred heifers, preferably Jersey, or young cows are bought between Christmas and March to freshen with the rest of the herd. These replacements can be purchased cheeper than raising the heifers.

When the first cows freshen in March, the portable milking parlor is pulled into the barn and used as a stationary milking parlor. At that time all cows, both milking and dry, are run through the parlor as training for when they will be milked in the field.

In late May or early June, an Angus bull is brought into the herd to breed the cows for freshening the next spring. Many of the cows cycle at the same time and Delp has had up to 13 cows freshen in a 12 hour period.

The resulting Angus cross calves are fattened and sent to a local butcher to package and freeze. The resulting prime veal is sold to the local market from the farm.

While Delp says this operation demands you spend all your time with the cows, the pressures are less, especially at hay making and planting time. And because the portable milking parlor and seasonal milking were such new ideas, the rules for a conventional dairy did not all apply. Actually, the operation has become a research project under the arm of the University of Maryland.

The normal milking routine consists of going to the barn and sanitizing the milking system, starting the tractor for warm up, inserting the milk filter, and heading out for milking in the pasture. Travel time varies according to where the cows are pastured. Delp has never traveled more than four miles from the barn.

Upon arrival, the parlor is pulled into the paddock where the cows have grazed and parked along the dividing wire between this paddock and the one where the cows will travel into a fresh strip of grass.

If the milking area becomes muddy, a small grass seeder is placed on the front of the tractor where rye, clover and grass seed is spun out. When the parlor is used, manure is washed down through the grated floor with 100 PSI pressure, coating the seed with water and organic fertilizer. Milking never takes place in the same spot and in 4 to 6 weeks the milking area has become the greenest area in the field.

Cows are pre-dipped and dried as in any barn. Milk from the cows flows by a 2.5 inch stainless steel line into a vacuum sealed tank, where it is cooled as in stationary cooling system.

In the process of milking you have harvested the milk and moved the cows forward into fresh forage. In a conventional system you would be mixing TMR, feeding the cows, cleaning the barn, putting new bedding in the free stalls and hauling the manure.

For the trip home, the parlor is raised up with the tractor's hydraulic system. Back at the barn the milk is pumped out of the portable tank into the permanent tank. Wash lines are attached, jetters placed on the milkers, milk filter removed, and the timer washer turned on. All milk contact surfaces are washed in the same manner as in any barn.

Delp believes the use of grazing in conjunction with the portable milking system reduces cost to where a small family dairy farm can be viable again. It can produce a quality product. It can place cattle in an environment where they can flourish. It certainly reduces environmental damage.

Best of all it brings farmers and urban neighbors together where the smell of spreading manure and the drift of spray material is not known.

And it allows the Dan Delp family to live in the middle of their rolling green pastures, somewhat removed from the pressures of normal dairy farming.

You might call it holistic farming.

State Physician General Warns Of Rabies

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A rabid kitten that bit an Altoona area woman prompted state Physician General Wanda Filer to warn people about coming into contact with stray animals.

According to local Health Department officials, the kitten was sickly-looking when discovered by the woman in mid-May.

After taking the kitten to her home, the animal bit the women on May 21. A laboratory test confirmed the kitten was rabid, and the woman began a series of five rabies immunization shots to prevent her from being infected with the deadly virus.

"This case should send a message to not only Altoona area residents, but to people around the state to always avoid contact with any stray animal," Filer said. "The area in which this incident occurred is near woodlands and there is a good possibility other stray kittens, possibly infected with the rabies virus, are in those woods."

The kitten is the first case of a rabid animal in Blair County this year. Across the state, there have been seven rabid cats confirmed in 1997.

"Any stray animal or any species of wildlife should be enjoyed from a distance," Filer said. She noted that raccoons make up the majority of the state's 156 rabies cases reported this year, but any warm-blooded animal is a potential risk.

Earlier this month, a Somerset County family received the rabies immunizations after being bitten by the family dog. The dog was previously immunized against rabies, but its shots were out-of-date.

Pennsylvania confirmed 382 cases of animal rabies last year. In 1989 and 1990, the state led the nation in confirmed rabies cases with 700 cases and 610 cases respectively.

R&D Expenditures For Animal Health Products Increase

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Animal Health Institute (AHI) member firms spent nearly $388 million to research and develop potential new products and support the continued safety and effectiveness of existing products in 1996, according to the results of AHI's 1996 Research and Development Survey.

The data contained in this survey were collected and compiled by the Animal Health Institute. Research and development (R&D) spending is tabulated according to the type of product manufactured by AHI's member firms: pharmaceuticals, feed additives, biologicals, insecticides and diagnostics.

The following reflects R&D spending levels among the various products:

• Pharmaceutical preparations: R&D spending in the pharmaceutical preparations category for AHI members was reported at $226.9 million, representing 58 percent of the 1996 R&D total.

• Biologicals: R&D spending in the biologicals category was reported at $72.4 million, representing 19 percent of the total 1995 R&D.

• Feed additives: R&D spending in the feed additives category was reported at $69.5 million, 18 percent of the total 1996 R&D.

• Insecticides: Five percent of total R&D spending in 1996 was directed to the insecticides category, with an expenditure of $18.3 million.

• Diagnostics: Of the total R&D spending, 0.2 percent was for diagnostics with a total 1996 reported expenditure of $.8 million.

AHI member firms were asked to report innovative research, or funds spent in the search for new animal health products. In addition, they were asked to report on defensive research, or work done to support the continued use of approved products. In 1996, innovative research expenditures were reported at $316.8 million, representing 82 percent of the total. The remaining 18 percent was spent on defensive research for a 1996 total of $71.1 million.

The survey shows a two percent increase in R&D figures over 1995. According to AHI officials, distribution of R&D expenses over various product categories remained consistent with last year, as did defensive vs. innovative research expenses.

A compilation of surveys from the past three years showing trends in the animal health product sales and research and development expenditures is available from AHI. The report includes total combined sales figures of AHI members for ruminant, swine, poultry, small animals, and equine products. Sales totals for these species are broken down as feed additives, biologicals, insecticides, and pharmaceuticals. No further breakdowns or tabulations are provided, although the report shows trends in these categories for 1994, 1995 and 1996. The report is $70. Copies can be ordered by calling Marie Gilmore of the Animal Health Institute at (703) 684-0011.

PERMIT® FIGHTS TOUGH WEEDS, TOOTH AND NAIL.

Safe on corn.
Rip through broadleaves, with the unmatched performance of Permit herbicide. You can use it in corn or grain sorghum to control a broad spectrum of tough weeds, including: velvetleaf, cocklebur, pigweed (even triazine-resistant varieties), common ragweed and sunflower.

Stronger, longer
Its unique chemistry and two-fold action allows Permit to move into both the leaves and roots of labeled species, attacking weeds immediately. Then, its residual soil activity keeps Permit working all season long.

All-ways crop safe
Because Permit combines exceptional control with crop safety, you can tackle large or small weeds in large or small corn. It extends your application window from spike all the way through canopy closure.

Yet, Permit does not carry over from one season to the next. Unlike atrazine or Exceed, Permit degrades in both low and high pH soils. It also does not pose volatility problems, eliminating worries of damage to adjacent crops from vapor drift.

Call 1-800-CORN-SAFE
Discover how Permit can help you bear down on tough weeds, without the fear of corn injury. For more information, call 1-800-CORN-SAFE (1-800-267-6723).

that the virus is nonpathogenic and poses no threat to human health. He said the the quarantine effectively stops the transportation of live poultry into and out of the quarantined area. It also prevents any traffic moving onto farms with poultry unless they have a receipt certifying that the truck and any material it is carrying has been cleaned and disinfected.

In addition, Sally Bair, PDA press secretary, said some of the areas in bio-security not always considered, are the movement of manure, the exchange of farm equipment between farms, and custom farm operators moving from one farm to another.

The areas of Lancaster County under quarantine include portions of Rapho Township, Penn Township, East Hempfield Township, and West Hempfield Township. The roughly rectangular area begins at the intersection of Routes 501 and 30, west along Route 30 to its intersection with Route 23, along 23 to where it crosses the confluence of Little Chickies Creek and Chickies Creek. North along the west bank of Little Chickies Creek to where it crosses Elizabethtown Road, then east along Elizabethtown Road to its intersection with Newport Road. From Newport Road east to its intersection with Brubaker Valley Road, then east along Brubaker Valley Road to its intersection with Route 501 and south to its intersection with Route 30.

In a memo to the industry, John Hoffman of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, outlined the regulations in effect in the quarantined area and gave some help in what is required.

PERMIT REQUIREMENTS

Live poultry and poultry products may not be moved to or from the Quarantined Area, or within the Quarantined Area without a permit from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Permit Requirements In The Quarantine Zone Include:

Eggs: Twenty (20) blood samples per flock must test negative once a month to obtain a 30 day permit to transport eggs from a farm in the quarantine zone. However, testing is recommended every two weeks. New fiber or washed and sanitized plastic flats must be used. The fiber flats can not be reused.

Live Poultry: Twenty (20) blood samples per flock 20 days prior to movement and 20 cloacal swabs 3 days prior to movement must be negative.

Manure: Permit must be obtained to move manure out of the quarantine zone.

Note: Vehicles just passing through the quarantine zone do not require permits.

Number To Call For Permits: (717) 783-9550; Dr. Bruce Schmucker, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Waiver Of Right To Payment Required To Bring Poultry Into Quarantine Zone

To obtain a permit which is required to bring poultry or poultry products into the quarantine zone, the applicant must sign a waiver of any claim, right or entitlement to receive any payment if these articles or poultry are later condemned.

Traffic To Farms In Quarantine Zone

People and vehicles not associated with essential services should not be permitted on farms in the quarantine zone. Feed and delivery trucks should be disinfected and flies destroyed before leaving any farm in the quarantine zone. Prior to leaving the quarantine zone, the truck must be washed and sanitized and have certification that this was done. Companies have voluntarily discontinued sending service people to farms and with the exception of emergencies, this practice should be continued throughout the remainder of the quarantine.

State Police Patrols

Pennsylvania State Police accompanied by government agricultural personnel will be patrolling the quarantine zone and stopping vehicles for inspection and permit compliance.

Requirements For Repopulating Previously Depopulated (Infected) Premises

1. After 3 weeks, culture manure in pit.
2. Following negative manure, clean and disinfect premise.
3. Culture (test) premise for virus.
4. Following negative premise culture, allow house to sit empty for 30 days.

Recommended (Approved) Disinfectants

A list of disinfectants approved by USDA for use in avian influenza is available from the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation of Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture offices. There are 50 disinfectants on this list so essentially all common disinfectants are probably included. It is important to make sure directions for application are followed.

Monitoring Outside Quarantine Zone

It is important that everyone take responsibility for participating fully in the ongoing Statewide Avian Influenza Monitoring program. This program recommends:

- 24-30 eggs (up from 10) submitted from all laying flocks each month.
- 10 blood samples from all meat birds at time of processing.
- 10 blood samples or 20 cloacal swabs from flocks moving to the live bird market.

Reporting of any significantly increased sickness or mortality to your company or to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture or submission of birds to a Diagnostic Laboratory.

Biosecurity-Protect Your Flock And Others

Every producer should be practicing and requiring any service or other persons coming on their farm to practice the highest level of biosecurity. Avian Influenza virus could be spread by people, equipment, manure, contaminated supplies, animals including birds, other poultry and perhaps the wind. Plastic boots that are left and then discarded on the farm should be the minimum precaution being taken by those collecting eggs or delivering feed at any poultry farm in the state — every farm must be treated as being potentially contaminated because virus can be present before any illness occurs. At this time we do not know how this virus is getting around but we need to try and prevent all possibilities over which we do have control.

4-H Livestock Retreat Provides Learning Experience

COUDERSPORT (Potter Co.) — Twenty-four members and six parents of various 4-H clubs throughout the county gathered at Penn York Camp on April 25 for the second annual Livestock Retreat.

Parent Peggy Derr conducted a human scavanger hunt with the kids, who were divided into three teams. After this, Sue Brawand of St. Mary's, 4-H leader for riflery, spoke about the importance of 4-H, sportsmanship, and conduct at meetings.

Members participated in a Skill-A-Thon. There were four stations: animal ID, feeding livestock, med/vet of livestock, and showing/fitting livestock. Each station had equipment and supplies that the members identified.

The first session was animal ID. Amy Benson did a program on noseprinting beef and sheep. Members learned the whys and hows and practiced on Josh Risser's beef heifer and on Matt Cornell's lamb. Many made note cards with their prints. Lucy White then demonstrated rabbit tattooing.

The next session was conducted by Ronnie Schenkein, Coudersport area veterinarian. She showed the different areas to inject medications and told of some common meds. All the members practiced giving shots with syringes, water, and a paper cup.

Session 4 included choosing, showing, and care of rabbits. This was conducted by Natalie Vincent from Warsaw, N.Y., who is a member of the Endless Mountain Rabbit Society. Also, other members were involved in fitting and showing techniques of livestock presented by Corey Miles.

The next session was conducted by Dave Potter, Cornelle Brothers Agway. He spoke about proper animal feed. His presentation included a movie and overhead projection.

After the sessions, members cleaned cabins and prepared to go home. They also repeated the Skill-A-Thon.

At 5:30, parents came to collect their children and all enjoyed a covered dish dinner. During dinner a video was run of the two days of events.

Dairy, a year-old Hereford/Limousin, was cooperative in the beef noseprinting session.

Geneva Station 'Outstanding Example' Of What Land Grant System Produces

GENEVA, N.Y. — Deputy Agriculture Secretary Richard Rominger came to the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station (NYSAES) in Geneva, N.Y., for a three-hour tour recently.

He left with 50 years of research in his pockets — an Empire and a Jonagold apple.

"The Geneva Station is an outstanding example of what our land grant university system produces for America's taxpayers," said the U.S. Departemnt of Agriculture's deputy secretary." Agricultural research and extension are what have made possible the bounty of agricultural production we have in this country and allow the U.S. consumer to pay a lower percentage of income for food than in any other country in the world. The work that I saw at NYSAES demonstrated beyond any doubt the value of this investment in agricultural research."

At the station, Rominger participated in a roundtable discussion with three local station stakeholders — Joe Nicholson, owner of Red Jacket Orchard in Geneva, David Peterson of Swedish Hill Vineyard in Romulus and Laura Pedersen of the Hansen Farm. They explained how a working relationship with Geneva was important to their operations.

"The partnership that exists between the federal, state and local government, and with the farmers, processors and private industry is evident at the Experiment Station and certainly proves the wisdom and benefits of this collaboration," said Rominger. "Support by private industry is what leverages the public dollars to achieve maximum results."

Geneva Director Jim Hunter stressed the importance of federal and state support. He said, "Long-term agricultural research can only flourish in an environment of sustained staffing and continued funding."

Scientists at Geneva demonstrated how the station develops basic agricultural knowledge through research, and applies it in partnership with growers and processors in fruit and vegetable industries across the state. Examples demonstrated included IPM-labeled vegetables in Wegman's, fireblight-resistant apple trees in station orchards, management of pesky corn borers, DNA fingerprinting of grapes at the USDA-ARS Plant Genetic Resources Unit, use of genetic engineering technology to produce virus-resistant squash and tomatoes, and the fostering of new food products with entrepreneurs through the Food Venture Center.

"Partnerships between research and industry are what will help the U.S. stay competitive in national and international markets," said Rominger. "Congress wants to know that the growers are financially supportive of what the researchers are doing."

Rominger, who grew up on a family farm in California and graduated with a degree in plant science from UC-Davis, was appointed to the USDA's number two slot by President Clinton in 1993. He came to Geneva after delivering a keynote address to an agricultural fraternity conference and touring Cornell University's Ithaca campus.

"Richard Rominger's visit presented us with a unique opportunity to inform him how one land-grant college operates within the U.S.D.A./land-grant college partnership," said Daryl Lund, dean of Cornell's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. "If agriculture is to remain economically viable in New York, it is going to take collaborative efforts between federal, state, and local agencies and resources. Since he has a great deal of influence at the federal level, this was our opportunity to let him know our plans for supporting agriculture and related sciences."

Will This Be A 'Good' Year?

As we charge headlong into the 1997 growing season, many of us are wondering what lies ahead.

Each year we ponder the possibilities. Will the crop out-grow the weeds, resist the insects, and mature into a bountiful harvest? And if it does, will the harvest bring a fair market value?

Will we be blessed with timely rains and abundant sunshine? Or drought and searing heat?

Three Iowa State University researchers provide some interesting insight to these questions in a study recently published in the Journal of Production Agriculture. In an attempt to explain the extreme variation in corn yields during the past 10 years, they compared midwestern corn yields, weather data, and the El Nino phenomenon since 1900. Year-to-year yields can be influenced by many factors, but weather is frequently the driving force — especially in Pennsylvania.

The researchers grouped years into El Nino years, La Nina years, and "in-between" years. El Nino years are characterized by a warming of ocean waters off the South American coast. La Nina years represent years with colder than normal sea temperatures in that region. Temperatures are close to normal during "in-between" years.

Between 1950 and the mid-1970s, corn yields steadily increased without weather as a limiting factor in most years. Pacific Ocean temperatures during this period were usually close to normal. Then midwestern yields began to fluctuate in the 1980s and 1990s because of extreme weather events. This fluctuation coincides with warmer and cooler temperatures in the eastern Pacific during the same period.

Above-average midwestern corn yields were generally associate with El Nino years. The authors link this to higher summer rainfall amounts and lower August temperatures in the Midwest. Droughts, and low crop yields, were more common during La Nina years.

On average, corn yields were nine percent higher in El Nino years compared to La Nina years. There were some El Nino years that were associated with low crop yields; however, poor yields were due to early frosts (1951) or excessive rainfall (1993), not drought.

The authors also analyzed midwestern rainfall totals during El Nino years and found some variation across the Corn Belt. August precipitation in central Iowa averaged 1.5 inches above normal, but only 0.5 inches above normal in eastern Ohio. Rainfall amounts during El Nino years were close to normal in states to the north and west of Iowa. August temperatures were also cooler and more favorable for crop growth in the northern two thirds of the corn belt.

One researcher suggested this effect may be caused by a more southerly storm track, resulting in more favorable weather in the Corn Belt. The authors conclude that while there is no clear physical relationship between El Nino and Midwestern corn yields, there are strong tendencies for more favorable weather during El Nino years.

Pennsylvania was not included in this study, although the trends appear to be less consistent for the eastern states. Irregardless of this, midwestern crop yields do affect worldwide grain supplies and market prices for local producers.

So will it be a good year? It's anybody's guess, but as our ability to predict El Nino years improves, crop yield forecasts should improve as well.

Summer Field Day July 19

YORK (York Co.) — York County will be the site of the 1997 Cattlemen's Summer Field Day on July 19 sponsored by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (PSA), and the South Central Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association in cooperation with Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

The event will begin with registration from 8 a.m.-9:30 a.m., tours of area feedlots and cow herds, and the annual PSA Junior Simmental show.

There will be a special afternoon program to address important issues affecting the beef industry. Tours of the feedlots and cow herds will be repeated in the afternoon.

There will be bus tours of three different area beef cattle operations. One herd visited will be South Branch Farms, a registered Angus cow herd which produces not only seed stock but also finishes some of their cattle for a special market. At South Branch, there will be a tour of the cow herd including some of their cattle for a special market. At South Branch, there will be a tour of the cow herd including some of the new practices for fall- and spring-calving management. An additional highlight will be a multi-use open shed for cattle handling, calving, and hay storage, which contributes markedly to the successful calving and efficient winter feeding program for the cow herd.

Lunch will consist of the Keystone Ribeye on a roll with other foods also available. There will be several speakers and special attractions for the afternoon program, held in the 4-H Center Auditorium.

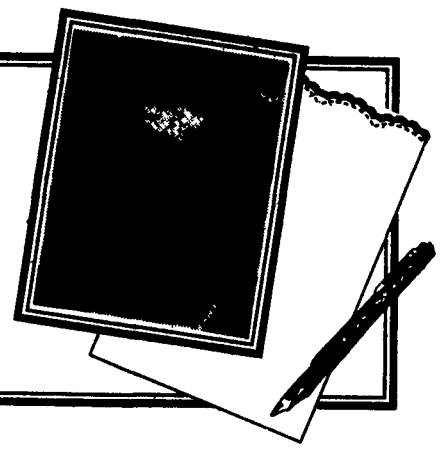
Dr. H. Louis Moore, extension agricultural economist, will present an update on livestock and grain prices, which should be more accurately predicted by mid-July. Other presentations will be updates on important legislative and public issues affecting the beef cattle business, beef promotion and education programs, and other timely topics, A highlight will be a discussion panel including cattle feeders, registered and commercial cattlemen who will address their plans for the future of their operations.

Commercial exhibitors will be housed in the new York County 4-H Center building, as will the junior show cattle. Individuals interested in attending should contact the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (814-692-4208), the Pennsylvania Simmental Associaiton (717-225-6279), or the Dept. of Dairy and Animal Science, Penn State (814-863-3659).

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser



Recently, a friend gave me a 1907 newspaper printed by "The Lititz Record." What was news ninety years ago? It was much the same kind of things that you find in your morning paper.

A mill burned and a man lost his life. Another headline states "State Capitol Scandal." A court case is attended by a large crowd of onlookers as an old man was robbed.

Many medicines were advertised as sure cures for rheumatism. One item for better health was a "Swamp Root" cure while another was sarsaprilla. There was a hair tonic advertisement and taclum powder sold for four onces for ten cents. A rupture could be cured in 30 days according to one doctor.

One story told of the mail carrier's horse that ran away. It traveled from Lititz to Lexington before being stopped. It ran through a closed toll gate and left the wagon behind. The rural mail carrier hitched up another horse and went on his route.

There was a social column which told of trips to Atlantic City and to a neighbors for dinner. Visitors came from Lancaster and others from Reading or Harrisburg. One person told of enjoying life in the country as he visited his parents.

The price for a year's subscription to "The Lititz Record" was $1. Muslin and gingham material was selling for .07¢ a yard. Approved varieties of seeds sold for 5- and 10-cents per "paper." And, an advertisement for a .25¢ dinner was placed by the Sorrel Horse Hotel at 49-51 W. King Street in Lancaster.

Many things have changed in the 90 years since the 1907 paper was published. Transporation is quicker and prices are much higher. But, many headlines are similar and people stilla ct in the same ways — both good and bad.

Veteran Technician Joins Northeast DHIA

ITHACA, N.Y. — Ten year Vermont DHIA veteran Diane Spear has recently joined the Northeast DHIA team. Herd owners describe Diane as accurate, dependable, thorough, and honest. She has a proven track record, and her commitment to providing excellent service in the St. Albans area is evident by the many herds that have followed her move from Vermont to Northeast DHIA. "We know that when Diane tests the cows, the information is accurate," noted one herd owner.

Many factors prompted Diane's transition from Vermont DHIA to Northeast DHIA. One was the innovative way in which Northeast DHIA compensates their Field Technicians. In order to hire and keep the best people possible, Northeast DHIA provides a salaray and bonus system. The result is less turnover and a staff that is motivated to provide high quality service to their members.

Diane cites several other noticeable differences between the two organizations. "I knew the Northeast DHIA Technicians used Dairy Comp 305 software on their laptops, and that Dairy Comp was a popular program but I never knew what made it so special. I am beginning to understand now. The Dairy Comp software allows me to do a lot more for my farmers on test day. The reports are easily customized and the information can be tailored for each herd I work with. It is amazing to me how much more I am able to do with Dairy Comp."

The second difference between the two organizations is the support and backup Diane has received from other staff members, both in the field and from the Northeast DHIA headquarters in Ithaca, New York. "I really feel like I am part of a team now," comments Diane. "The people I have worked with at Northeast DHIA really want to see me succeed, and they are very positive and upbeat about the future. I feel more secure now, and I am very excited about the improved service I am able to give my farmers."

If you would like more information about Northeast DHIA, or would like to schedule an appointment with Diane, you may contact her at (518) 594-7581, or call the Northeast DHIA center at 1-800-344-2697 and press 1 for Farm Service.

Northeast DHIA Records Services is a farmer owned cooperative and currently serves over 3600 members in the nine state area of Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania.

The Dairy One assured, Northeast DHIA Records Service strives to deliver more substance to the farms it services. Cooperative Dairy One works to get needed change done in the dairy industry.

Lamb & Wool Queen Came In Like A Lamb, Continues To Promote Industry

Heidi Svonavec, the 1997 Somerset County Lamb and Wool Queen, sits against an artistic backdrop of the Alps with cute, woolly lambs skipping along.

Heidi Svonavec, pictured by the pasture fence on the farm where she lives with her parents and brothers, has always loved and taken care of lambs like this three-week-old fellow.

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

ROCKWOOD (Somerset Co.) — "I came in 'like a lamb' on March 1, 1980," Heidi Svonavec, the 1997 Somerset County Lamb and Wool Queen is fond of saying.

Perhaps that's why the 17-year-old, from her childhood, has loved sheep and today says: "I've always felt pretty much at home with everything — from wethers to wool."

Considering the champions shown by the High Ridge 4-H Club member, there's no doubt about that statement.

Three grand champion lambs at the local county fair and one at the Eastern National Livestock Show are to her credit, besides those she had placed at the Louisville International Livestock Expo.

Promoting the local wool industry will be a pleasure for Heidi, who recently, in the Somerset County Junior Miss contest, portrayed herself as "Heidi, of the Alps," against an artistic Apline backdrop that sorted woolly lambs.

Heidi says that packers and processors get more usable by-products from sheep than from any other meat animal. She anticipates an opportunity to educate the public with this knowledge, besides introducing them to foods made with lamb.

"It is my contention that there isn't anyone who doesn't like good lamb," she says, "just people who have not yet tried it. I want to spread that message this year through promotional samples," she added.

And who would dream, when they button their shirt, that they are handling ground up sheep bones?

And if the clueless chewers of gum knew where the product originated the result could be chewless, because the source is sheep.

The list is endless — marshmallows, glue, paint, film soap, gelatin, candles and capsulated medicine and others.

Her career in 4-H has allowed Heidi to be selected as a 4-H ambassador to Harrisburg and also a 4-H exchange delegate; election to 4-H county council as well as vice-president and president of her own club.

Her 4-H blue form also merited the high honors award, and she was a 4-H judging team member.

In the Rockwood FFA she is also an officer.

Special needs students have won Heidi's heart and she has donated many hours to help them with cooking, besides playing host when they are welcomed to the Svonavec farm by David and Betty Lou, her parents.

Luke and Gabriel are her brothers and younger than their sister.

During special olympics, Heidi is there, volunteering, just as she does occasionally, for area nursing homes and the Daughters of the American Revolution, who are entertained by her song and dance numbers.

Although it's been awhile since her own wardrobe has had an addition of a self-constructed garment from wool or otherwise, Heidi, is considering that such a project is overdue.

Summer festivals and consequent parade appearances looming on the horizon are the incentive to find a complimentary pattern, cut it out and perhaps, create a new gown for these events.

It isn't too early for college preparations, in fact, next fall when she enters her senior high school year, Heidi will be looking ahead to Penn State and animal science studies to later realize a career in veterinary medicine.

Although the trophies and banners that she and her brothers have received during numerous show experiences — Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky and Missouri — Heidi says it isn't these that give her the most pride.

"It is the wonderful learning experiences I have had, the show ring skills I have improved upon, the many places I have had the opportunity to travel to and the good friends that I have made along the way."

Heidi told the guests at the dinner where she received her crown from Jenna Svonavec, the 1996 lamb and wool queen, that the sheep industry affects people's lives in many ways.

Hers especially, she told the Somerset County Lady Shepherds, has been touched because of the good times she and her family have shared.

"We worked side by side in the barn lambing, feeding and working with our sheep," she said.

"It's touched my life in the many wonderful friends I've already come to know thorugh my travels, shows and events just like this evening with all of you good people."

Heidi said, too, that the responsibilities she had to assume helped her to become a better person academically and socially.

Perhaps the experiences showing lambs and conversing with show judges over eight years were indirectly responsible for the Presence and Composure Award the judges chose her to receive, recently, at Junior Miss.

As she closed her acceptance speech at the lamb banquet, as a thank you gift, Heidi gave away a potted plant called Lamb's Ear.

Some scheduled appearances will find Queen Heidi at the Somerset Lamb Jackpot Show, the Somerset Lamb Carcass Show, Lamb Cap hosted by Dave Svonavec's, the Somerset County Fair and state competition.

One thing Heidi won't do, however, is to "lamb-ent" when life is filled with so many good things.

The Somerset County Lamb and Wool Queen wants to share a favorite recipe that calls for lamb.

BUFFALO CHIPS

½ pound ground lamb
½ pound ground pork (sausage)
1 pound Velveeta cheese (cubed)
1 tablespoon basil
½ pound ground beef
1 tablespoon garlic powder

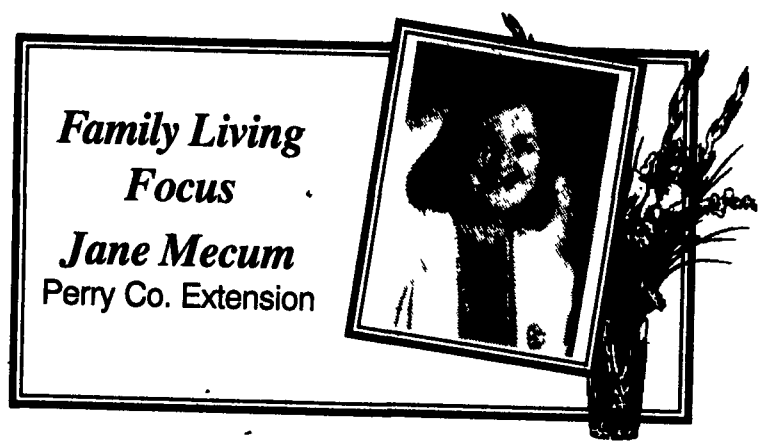
HOMESTEAD NOTES



Encouraging Creativity

It won't be long before school will be out! For some parents this is great news, for others it is a time for panic. What to do with the kids can be a challenge.

Recently, many Americans celebrated "No TV Day." This was a day when children, with their families, turned off the television and were to find things to do together. One young child mentioned he was going to play outside with his dad and another indicated she and her family were going to do board games.

Television can be entertaining and educational, but is not a medium that is interactive. Children need interaction with each other and with adults. Children of all ages learn through play. By playing children learn social skills, they grow intellectually, develop physically by using both small and large muscles, and expand themselves emotionally.

When we think about playing various visions can come to mind like: board games, running, swinging, mud pies, dress-up, balls, parks just to name a few. But how about art: is it playing? It can be.

Art is an activity that requires physical, intellectual, emotional, and even social skills. Art is an area where children can be encouraged to express themselves while using an array of materials.

This summer both parents and grandparents can use this time to explore just how art can be used as a form of playing. Children should have easy access to basic art materials like paints, markers, colored paper, string, soap, magazines, cornstarch, glue, clay, playdough and water. Older children may need to expand the list. Children learn best by repeating experiences with basic materials. You can even use recycled terms like meat trays, paper bags, coffee cans, and left over yarn, to provide an educational opportunity while being creative. Here are some tips to encourage creativity:

- Provide a variety of materials
- Plan enough time so children are not rushed
- Don't tell children what to make, give suggestions if they draw a blank
- Make positive comments
- If you're not sure what the finished project may be, ask the child to tell you about it.
- Listen attentively when they explain their project.
- Display the completed art work (Isn't that why we have smooth refrigerator fronts?)
- Have the child show the art to family members and friends
- Have an open mind and join in the fun with them

Now is the time to collect the materials and ideas so you and your family have wonderful and creative summer.

Doctor Writes Book On Practicing Medicine In Lancaster County

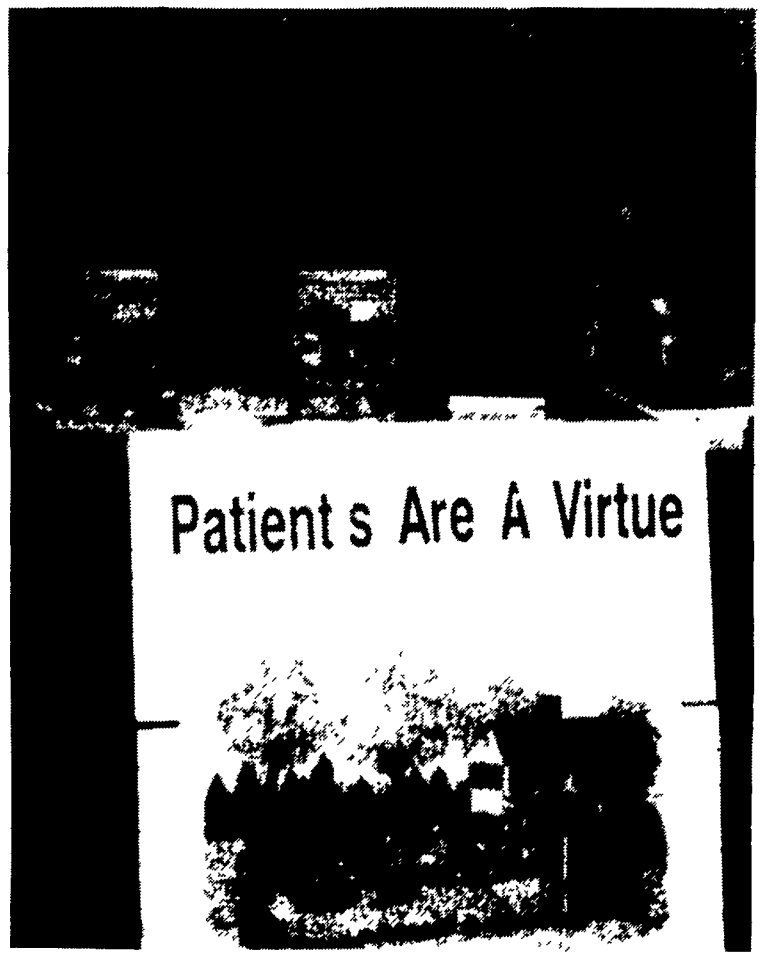
STRASBURG (Lancaster Co.) — Dr. Henry S. Wentz began to practice medicine in the days when house calls were common. On call night and day, Wentz was unable to attend special events or even enjoy family dinners without interruption.

Few medicines were available to treat complex illnesses. Diagnosis needed to be made without the help of ultrasound, magnetic resonance imaging, and other specialized tests. Medical costs were low and office visits cost $1.50 to $2.

Recently Wentz released a book on his 40 years of doctoring in Strasburg. "Patients Are A Virtue: Practicing Medicine in the Pennsylvania Amish Country," colorfully demonstrates the response of a rural physician to the sad and happy times of his patients and their loved ones. Each chapter deals with a different story about Wentz's county doctoring from 1943-1988. Some title include: "Dying is Part of Live;" "My Wife's Prophecy," "A Train Wreck in Paradise," "Poliomyelitis in the 1950s," "Saved by a Scream."

Wentz's colleague Dr. Paul H. Ripple illustrated the stories.

Copies of "Patients Are A Virtue," can be ordered at $12.95 per book plus $3 for shipping (plus 78 cents Pa. sales tax for Pennsylvanians) from Masthof Press, R.R.1, Box 20, Mill Road, Morgantown, PA 19543-9701.



Dr. Henry Wentz, right, wrote "Patients Are A Virtue: Practicing Medicine In The Pennsylvania Amish County." Dr. Paul H. Ripple, left, provided sketches for each chapter.

It's likely one of mankind's oldest forms of entertainment.

Whole cities have developed around its economics. It creates jobs and development. Also, families have fallen apart over it, children gone hungry because of it, fortunes have been lost and lives changed through its influence.

Gaming. Wagering. Playing the odds. Gambling.

Now both Pennsylvania and our near neighbor to the south, Maryland, are debating in their governing bodies the issue of extending it another step with slot machines at race tracks. One more place we could potentially lose our hard-earned bucks and — theoretically — help balance the wobbling budgets of our bureaucracies.

Hey, it's time farmers got into the act.

After all, who has more experience at gambling than a farmer?

That's reinforced every year — especially this time of year — when the bills stack up for fertilizer, seed, seed innoculant, lime and assorted, related crop-planting inputs.

Look around the countryside. Here comes a tractor lugging a drill, dropping soybeans into the ground. Or corn, except most of that's already planted. Likewise potatoes, put in the soil weeks ago and maybe coming up. Maybe not, due to the strange mix of cold and dry this odd — weatherwise — spring.

And, soon, there will go combines, lopping off the tops of barley, first, followed by wheat, oats, rye. Hopefully. Some growers are scratching their heads over what the strange weather combinations of the past several months have done to this year's awaiting small grain yields.

Thousands — millions — of $$$$ stashed into the ground. And not a single guarantee there will be any return, even enough to cover the cost of putting it there.

Now, is that gambling or what?

Our newest baby heifer calf has settled into a corner pen of the calf barn, eagerly gulping down her twice-a-day bottle and already beginning to nibble at molasses-laced calf starter feed. Like all infants, her young body is subject to intestinal upsets, colds, and assorted viruses, as well as sensitive to temperature changes, feed variances.

Every day a little heifer eats and grows represents an investment of time and financial investments. With a little luck, as she grows, she will not find some way to escape a pen and get hurt. Get sick on some little bit of moldy hay that had to be baled too damp due to an impending thunderstorm late on a July day. Have reproduction problems and not breed. Or calve with an oversize, backwards bull calf and die from complications of a difficult delivery.

Hey, it's a gamble.

Poultry producers of the region are cautiously holding their breaths over the latest discovery of Avian flu, harmless to people but devastating to a grower's livelihood. This bug manages to infiltrate facilities despite producers maintaining super-clean houses, judiciously barring visitors from buildings, requiring changes of boots and clothing to enter facilities, and taking every sort of recommended saftey precaution.

But how can anyone prevent migratory geese or ducks from flying over and leaving one tiny germ behind in a dropping that happened to land at the wrong place?

What kind of odds would you bet on that?

Farmers gamble that the feed price will hold steady while they fatten the steers and hogs and the market price take a jump the day they sell. That the used forage chopper or hay baler or vitally-needed tractor they bought at a sale this spring will make it through the season without major (read expensive) repairs. That the crops will grow — and the weeds won't.

Yes, indeedy, folks. Perhaps it's time for us folks with lots of experience to vertically integrate into more profitable aspects of the wagering business.

OK, fellas, you can just park that slot machine right there inside the milk house door ...

Free Publication Country Living: A Homeowner's Guide

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Chances are that you have chosen to live in the country because you cherish the peace and quiet, the wide open spaces, and the beauty of nature. However, with this enjoyment and independence often comes responsibility. Most drinking water supply and sewage disposal in rural areas of Pennsylvania is done on-lot. As the property owner, you are responsible for maintaining your drinking water and septic systems.

Understanding how they work and how to keep them operating efficiently is good for your family's health and for your household budget as replacing these systems can be expensive.

Penn State Cooperative Extension of Wayne County is offering a new publication entitled Country Living: A Homeowner's Guide free of charge, upon request.

This publication covers the basics of private drinking water supply, on-lot wastewater disposal, and the authorities and workings of township government. Also discussed in this publication is the changing face of Pennsylvania's countryside and farmer-nonfarmer relations, and provides further sources of information for each of these topics.

Pick up your free copy of Country Living, at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension office located in the Courthouse, 925 Court Street, Honesdale, PA 18431.

Credit Card Self Defense

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — More people are using credit cards than ever before. Most of these people are also carrying larger balances from month to month. Credit card companies are continually looking for ways to increase their profits.

"These credit card industry charges may end up costing you money even if you don't carry a balance on your card," says Debra Bryant, Penn State Cooperative Extension Director in Wayne County. "You need to keep up on these charges to avoid credit card traps that cost you money," warns Bryant.

She offers these self-defense tips from consumer-credit consultant, Geri Detweiler, to help you avoid credit-card traps.

Rising penalty fees. A recent Supreme Court decision allows card issuers to charge high fees when user payments are late or credit limits are exceeded. Fees may be as high as $25 to $30 if your check is just one day late or if you exceed your credit limit. Credit card issuers may also raise the interest rate if you're late a few times.

Self-defense: Know when your credit card payment is due. The payment must arrive at the credit card company by the due date. An envelope postmarked on the due date does not count. Geri recommends writing the date the bill must be mailed on the front of the envelope and arranging the bills in order of the mailing date. You should also consider reducing the number of credit cards you have and transferring balances to lower-rate cards.

Making life hard on the debt-free customers. If you don't carry a balance on your credit card or charge only $3,000 to $5,000 a year, you may be hit with annual fees for low usage. The issuer may also eliminate the grace period or a card may be canceled if a balance isn't boosted. Revoking cards is becoming more common and is completely legal.

Self-defense: Before you sign up for a credit card, request a copy of the cardholder agreement, which spells out the terms. This agreement is usually sent after you apply when you receive the credit card. Applications do not contain all the necessary information. If you don't carry a balance and use your card infrequently, consider switching to a Visa or MasterCard debit card which deducts purchases directly from your checking account — just don't forget to record the purchase in your check register.

No warning that your introductory rate has expired. If you signed up earlier this year for a card with a super-low six-month introductory rate, check your statement. The low rate may be about to expire or it may have already risen five percentage points or more.

Self-defense: Call your credit card issuer and ask that your old rate be continued for another six months. If the card issuer agrees, mark your calendar so you'll remember to call and haggle again before the rate goes up. If your issuer won't at least compromise and give you a rate of 13% or less, switch to another card with a lower rate. When you switch cards, close out old ones to avoid the temptation of using the cards again and to clean up your credit rating. Having too much credit available may cause lenders to reject you.

Lower credit limits for new cardholders. Many issuers are not targeting potential customers with mail that says they are preapproved for cards at attractive rates. After you sign up and the card arrives, you may discover that your credit limit is for only a few hundred dollars. In these cases, card issuers are waiting to evaluate applicants' credit ratings until after they accept the card.

Self-defense: Demand an immediate increase in your credit limit. If refused, return the credit card with a statement that it is of no use to you. If you think the card is too good to pass up, ask if you can transfer a large balance from another card but only if the issuer will raise your credit limit.

If you'd like to learn more about managing your credit cards plan to attend a "Credit Cards — A Self-Defense Workshop" offered by Penn State Cooperative Extension on Thursday, April 10 at 7:15 p.m. in the Wayne County extension meeting room, basement of the original courthouse building Honesdale. Workshop is free and open to the public. Call (717) 253-5970 ext. 239 today to reserve your spot.

Employees of Birth Care & Family Health Services show off some of the items to be auctioned on June 7. From left are Maren Ketcham, administrator; Catherine Saunders, director of nursing; Joyce Rohm, secretary; and Rita Rhoads, certified nurse midwife. The annual benefit auction supports the center's services to needy families and crisis pregnancies.

Community Takes Responsibility For Birth Care

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Birthing care is a community responsibility in Quarryville.

To provide medical care for those who can't afford to pay, Birth Care & Family Health Services holds an annual benefit auction.

"We have a wonderful base of support from businesses and from individuals in the area," said Maren Ketcham, administrator for the health service.

The basement of the health facility is overflowing with donated items that will be auctioned during the Fifth Annual Benefit Auction scheduled for Saturday, June 7, 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Hoffman Building, Solanco Fairground, Route 472 So., Quarryville.

Rita Rhoads, certified nurse midwife, began Birth Care, which was Pennsylvania's first non-profit birth and women's health care center, in 1978.

Not only do the funds go to help crisis pregnancies but also to keep costs low for everyone who uses the midwifery birthing, well-women and well-child care services.

Grateful recipients of the services donate items, time, and talents to make each auction a success.

"Each year, the auction grows larger," Maren said.

Staunch supporters include an anonymous young widow, whose wife died unexpectantly. He wanted someone to make two quilts from the clothing and bridal gown of his deceased wife. Someone suggested he contact Birth Care because a number of volunteers quilt year-round in preparation for the annual auction.

The widow was so impressed with the finished quilts and by the services provided by Birth Care. Although his wife had never used the center's services, he said that she would have supported the service if she was still alive. In his wife's memory, the widow annually purchases a quilt top that is quilted and auctioned for event.

In addition to many handmade Amish and contemporary quilts and other needlework, featured items include woodcrafts, furniture, farm and building supplies, tools, housewares and landscaping plants. Local folk arts and crafts along with original artworks including limited edition prints from some of Lancaster County's best known artists have been donated. Collectible Winross and Ertl trucks will be sold at noon. Certificates for goods and services will be auctioned throughout the day.

Children's activities and great food will be available.

"The early bird gets the worm, so be sure to arrive for the sale preview from 9:00-10:00 a.m. and enjoy free homemade donuts and coffee," Ketcham said.

Donations of goods and services will be accepted until Thursday, June 5, at the birth center, 1180 Dry Wells Road, Quarryville. All donations are tax deductible and pick up can be arranged. For information or donations, contact Maren or Rita at (717) 786-4010 or 786-5506. Visa, Mastercard, Discover, and pre-approved checks accepted. Auctioneer: Enos Petersheim (AU-3407-L).

Strawberry Shortcake is a winning combination that's difficult to top.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

Wash, hull, and slice one quart strawberries and toss in a large bowl with sugar. Chill until ready to serve.

Shortcake:
¾ cup butter
1 tablespoon milk
¼ cup boiling water
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt

Beat first three ingredients in a small bowl until light and fluffy. Add flour and salt, beat at lowest speed until all dry ingredients are moistened. Divide in half.

Roll one half in flour and place in center of a cookie sheet, the kind that doesn't have a rim or on lightly floured surface and roll into a thin oblong, to fit cookie sheet, trim off edges. Score into square serving pieces, prick with a fork and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until lightly browned. There will be enough shortcake for two cookie sheets, about 30 pieces.

When cool, break into pieces where scored and stack on serving dishes, starting with shortcake, top with berries, another shortcake, berries, and last, top with whipped cream or milk or cream.

This was one of my mother-in-law's and her family's favorite desserts.

Bread Mix

2 cups white rice flour
1¼ cups bean flour
2½ teaspoons Xanthan gum
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon egg replacer
½ cup dry milk
1 large egg and 2 egg whites
1 teaspoon cider vinegar
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1½ cup lukewarm water
1 packet dry yeast

In a large bowl, mix all dry ingredients except yeast. In a separate large bowl, mix all wet ingredients including the dry yeast. Add liquid to the dry ingredients and mix well. Scrape dough mixture into bread machine. Set machine to rise for 40 minutes to 1 hour and to bake. If baking in oven: Preheat to 375 degrees and bake for approximately one hour or until nice and brown.

Granary Loaf
Jeanette's favorite

½ cup whole almonds with skins
½ cup corn flour
½ cup tapioca flour
½ cup potato starch flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon xanthan gum powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup plain yogurt, low-fat or regular
½ cup water
1 egg
2 tablespoons corn oil
1 tablespoon dark molasses

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease a loaf pan with butter. Place the almonds and corn flour in the bowl of a food processor and grind until a fine meal is formed, the flour will prevent the nuts from turning oily.

Add the tapioca flour, potato starch, baking powder, baking soda, xanthan gum and salt, and process to mix well.

In a small bowl, mix the yogurt, water, egg, corn oil, and molasses together.

With the motor running, add the liquid ingredients through the feed tube and process just long enough to combine. Check the batter: it should be puffy-looking, and able to hold its shape on a spoon. If necessary, add a little more water or brown rice flour if the batter looks too thick or too moist. Using a rubber spatula, transfer the batter into the prepared pan. Smooth the top with the spatula and cut a trench down the center, which will help the bread to rise evenly. Bake until well browned and crusty, 40-45 minutes. Turn out and let cool on a wire rack. Makes one loaf.

The dry ingredients may be mixed together and stored in a dry place for quick and easy use later. Just add eggs, water, and salad oil when a cake is needed.

Kutztown Folk Festival Is June 28-July 6

SUMMIT STATION (Schuylkill Co.) — Since 1950, the PA Dutch Kutztown Folk Festival has offered "aushlaunders" (outsiders) an entrance into the unique Pennsylvania Dutch culture of both plain and fancy. For many the words "Pennsylvania Dutch" mean only the Amish, old order Mennonite and other plain sects. However, that culture encompasses much more. Most Pennsylvania Dutchmen live and work in today's world and at the same time maintain a unique heritage.

When visitors arrive at the PA Dutch Kutztown Folk Festival on the Schuylkill County Fairgrounds, they catch a glimpse of the PA Dutch farmlife of the 19th century. Crafts people including blacksmiths, tinsmiths, furniture makers, potters, and basket makers demonstrate their skills so that visitors see how their wares are made. Daily special events treat visitors to additional wonders, such as quilts, farm animals, sheep shearing, goat milking, and glass blowing. From eat-as-you-go snacks including funnel cakes, waffles and ice cream, apple dumplings to sit-down all-you-can-eat family dinners, the Kutztown Folk Festival offers mouthwatering delights to tempt all.

Facilities include four Folk art & Crafts buildings as well as a working Village and Settlement filled with expert craftsmen. Crazy For Crackers

4 tablespoons unsalted butter
½ cup milk
2¼ teaspoon active dry yeast
⅓ cup toasted, finely ground walnuts
1¼ cups gluten-free flour
1 teaspoon xanthan gum
2 teaspoons olive oil
Kosher salt

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt butter in a small saucepan. Simmer on low heat for about 5 minutes or until butter begins to brown and has a nutty fragrance. Let butter cool slightly. In a large microwaveable bowl, warm the milk and add the butter. Stir in yeast and one tablespoon gluten-free flour until dissolved. Let sit until yeast begins to foam. Add nuts and remainder of gluten-free flour. Beat mixture until well blended. Mixture will be crumbly. Using fingertips, work dough, adding a teaspoon warm water at a time up to 1½ tablespoons, until dough can be pressed into a ball. Allow to rest, covered, in warm place for 15 minutes. Spray the back of an 11x17-inch baking sheet with vegetable spray. Set dough on center of sheet and press and roll dough until it reaches the edges of the pan. Cover dough with oiled sheed of plastic wrap to prevent sticking as dough is rolled out.

Trim edges and cut into squares. Brush with olive oil, prick with a fork, and sprinkle with salt. Bake 15 minutes. Turn pan to allow crackers to brown evenly. Bake an additional 10 minutes or until tops are brown. Remove and cool. Store in an airtight container. Keeps 5 days. Makes 24-30 crackers.

Also, thanks to Mrs. Isaac Nolt of New Holland for sending gluten-free dessert recipes.

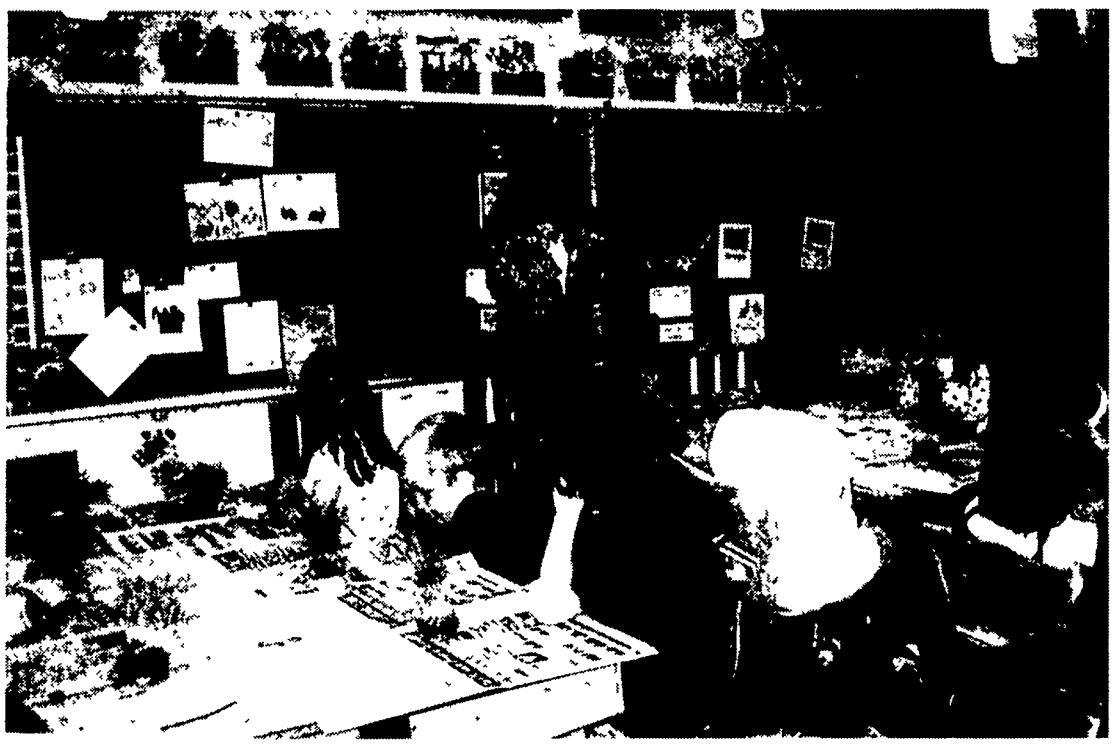
Plant pet grows "hair" and shows the originality of students who used felt, buttons, pipe cleaners, and fabric paint to make the pet.



The Plant Lady Carol Rohrbaugh teaches students how to make plant pets at Conowago Valley in the New Oxford School District.

Plant Pets From The Plant Lady

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Free to good home! One very small cute but hairy pet. Minimal care required. Loves plenty of fresh air, sunshine, and water. Oh yes, an occasional haircut may also be needed.

Sound like the ideal pet? Well, by now, many homes in Adams County may have already adopted one of these pets. Plant Pets are what they are called. What are they? Where can you get one?

Chances are that if you have a child in the third or fourth grade, attending one of the schools in Adams County, you already know about Plant Pets. They are creatures constructed of nylons, filled with grass seed and potting soil. A homemade, rather school-made "Chia Pet." With the help of the Plant Lady, your children learned how to make and take care of their pet.

A few weeks ago, you may remember your children talking about the "Plant Lady." She came to school with all the supplies needed for each child to make their own Pet. They may have asked for items to decorate their "Hairys." They may have tried some of the experiments that they learned through the magic show. These were some of the things your child participated in through a program called 4-H "Meet the Plants."

Carol Rohrbaugh, known to many fourth (and some third) graders as the "Plant Lady," has visited several Adams County schools, with a program called "Meet the Plants." "Meet the Plants" was started by Carol as a volunteer commitment she needed to fulfill when she became a Master Gardener.

Master Gardeners are community volunteers trained by county extension agricultural agents. Once they complete their training, Master Gardeners begin volunteer services as payment for the training. They are willing and able to educate individuals and groups in many areas of gardening. Carol chose to teach plant science to school age children through the 4-H enrichment program. The program is an introduction to plant science that illustrates the important relationship between plants and people. The hands-on educational project starts with construction of the Plant Pet and is followed up with different experiments conducted in the classroom. The students are introduced to 4-H through a slide presentation and then invited to participate in the fairs.

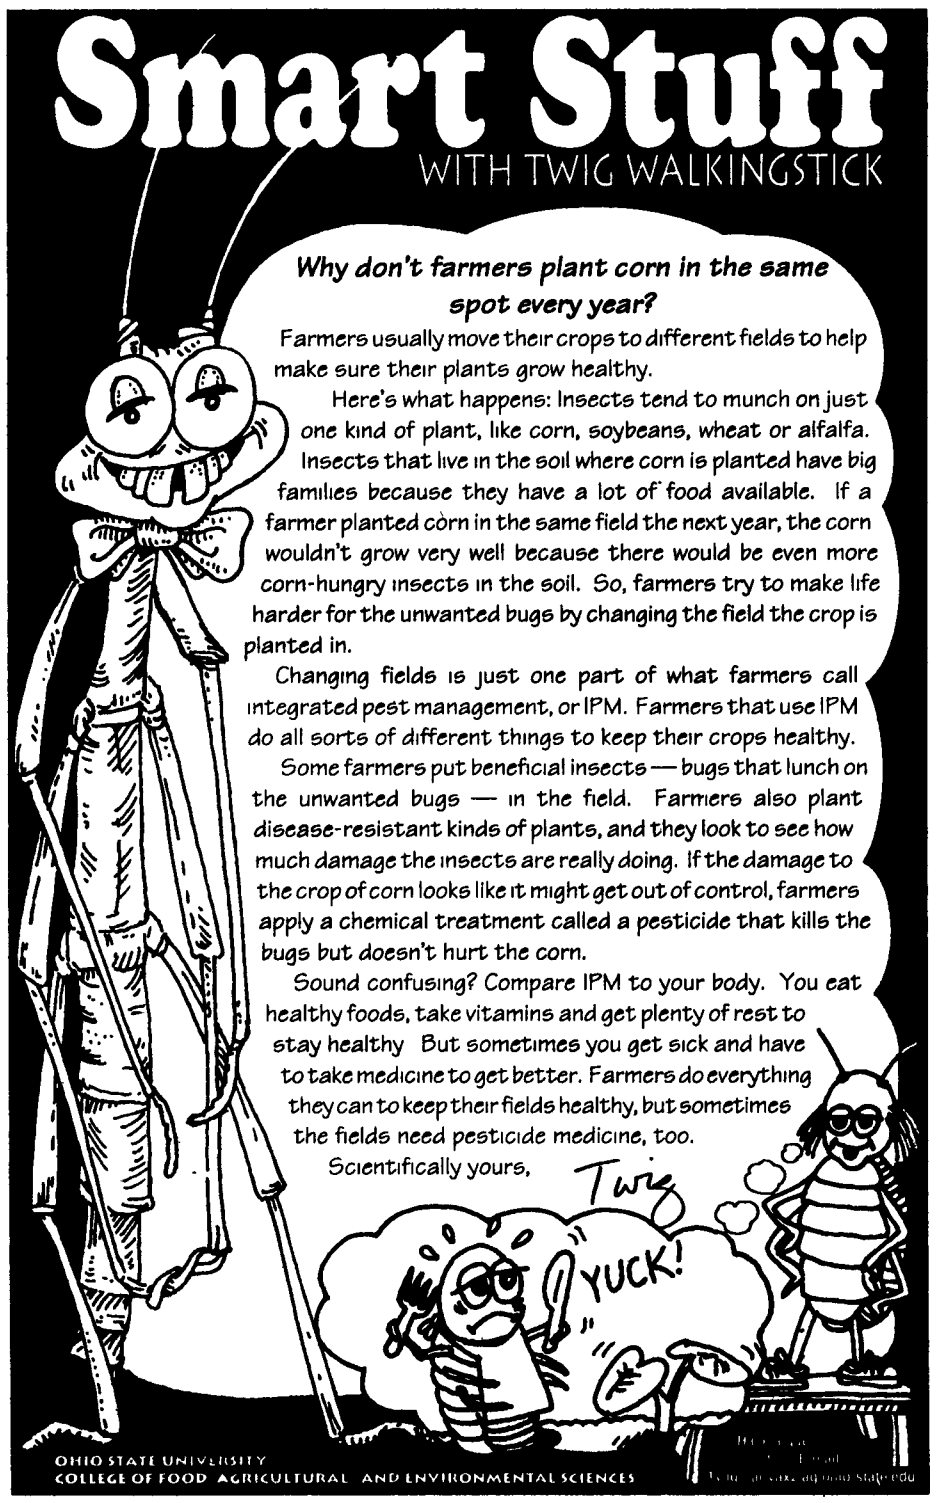
The first years of "Meet the Plants" started with a different program. Most parents heard phrases such as, "Hockey pucks, burnt mashmallows, and hammocks for pumpkins." The first program was designed to start Pumpkin and Zinnia seeds in the classroom.

This is the first year for the new and improved program. After several hours of research, and some ideals from Scholastic Books, Carol decided to have the students create a Creature called a Plant Pet. The program works with three visits to each classroom. The first consists of the same video, and the students are then taught how to make and take care of their pets. This is a hands-on project.

The second visit is what Carol calls her Magic Show. She uses different seeds and plants and performs several experiments for the students. Racing seeds, the strongest seed and root recycling are just a few of the highlights. The class ends with peanut surgery. The children are given a peanut to take apart to find the baby plant inside. The third visit remains the 4-H promotion visit with a twist. A slide presentation shows the students different aspects of 4-H. Then the visit ends with the Plant Pets receiving a haircut for their trip home. Each child is awarded a certificate and invited to attend 4-H and South Mountain Fair.

"Meet the Plants" started as a volunteer commitment for Carol. Funding to continue and enlarge the program has been provided through the Rarig Memorial Fund. This fund was set up to provide financial assistance for books and other classroom supplies. The only condition was to reach as many children as possible.

If you would be interested in donating to this program or would like to learn more about it, contact the Adams County Cooperative Extension Office at (717) 334-6271. Or write to Adams County Cooperative Extension, 1135 Chambersburg Road, Gettysburg, PA 17325-3397.



Smart Stuff

Why don't farmers plant corn in the same spot every year?
Farmers usually move their crops to different fields to help make sure their plants grow healthy.
Here's what happens: Insects tend to munch on just one kind of plant, like corn, soybeans, wheat or alfalfa. Insects that live in the soil where corn is planted have big families because they have a lot of food available. If a farmer planted corn in the same field the next year, the corn wouldn't grow very well because there would be even more corn-hungry insects in the soil. So, farmers try to make life harder for the unwanted bugs by changing the field the crop is planted in.
Changing fields is just one part of what farmers call integrated pest management, or IPM. Farmers that use IPM do all sorts of different things to keep their crops healthy.
Some farmers put beneficial insects — bugs that lunch on the unwanted bugs — in the field. Farmers also plant disease-resistant kinds of plants, and they look to see how much damage the insects are really doing. If the damage to the crop of corn looks like it might get out of control, farmers apply a chemical treatment called a pesticide that kills the bugs but doesn't hurt the corn.
Sound confusing? Compare IPM to your body. You eat healthy foods, take vitamins and get plenty of rest to stay healthy But sometimes you get sick and have to take medicine to get better. Farmers do everything they can to keep their fields healthy, but sometimes the fields need pesticide medicine, too.
Scientifically yours, Twig

From Seed To Table: Martins Experts On Soybeans

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

STEVENS (Lancaster Co.) — Growers are rushing to get their fields planted with soybeans. For supplies, planting procedures, and advice, Homer Martin is the person to ask.

Homer, a seed salesman, and his wife Mary operate a stand at Green Dragon Farmers' Market, where she sells edible soybeans, nuts, dried fruit, and baking products.

"Lots of people don't realize it, but the same soybeans grown for cattle can be eaten by humans," Homer said.

When the soybeans are mature but not yet dried, Homer pulls out the stalks and hangs them up to dry until ready to shell.

A seed expert, Homer advises that those interested in growing the beans should seed to achieve 175,000 plants per acre.

Check the tag on the seed packet to see how many seeds per pound. There should be approximately 2,750 seeds per pound. Ideally, 65 pounds of seed is sowed per acre — that calculates to 178,750 plants. Planting dept should be between 1-1½ inches.

If a field is double cropped, sow heavier to achieve 220,000 plants per acre.

Planting heavier forces the plants to grow higher. By nature, shorter days and a longer night will trigger short-season beans to start blooming. The plants will be mature too close to the ground, which could make combining difficult.

Planting season in the county is between April 15 and July 4. If double cropping, use full-season beans, also known as #3 beans, as much as possible. After June 21, #2 beans should be used.

Most seed dealers recommend inoculating beans when planting. Sprinkle over the beans in the hopper or drill planter. The inoculation works against disease and gives a nitrogen boost for early vigor.

Marketing futures on beans this summer are strong and are expected to reach $9 a bushel by mid-summer, compared to last year at $6.75 a bushel at harvest. According to Homer, one of the reasons for the rise in price is that the Brazilian crop does not look promising this year.

The commercial bean industry provides farmers with seeds with productive genes capable of reaching 75-90 bushels per production per acre. Homer counted more than 100 pods per plant, with three seeds per pod. One bean plant has the capacity to produce 300 bean seeds.

According to Homer, some garden varieties of soybeans remain green when dried. Others are tan or gray, the result of different plant genetics.

Some farmers toast soybeans for dairy feed. Others roast the seed.

"It smells wonderful. You can also eat toasted and roasted beans," Homer said.

This year Homer sold 23 tons of vegetable seeds wholesale and retail, each delivered in a 48-foot trailer loaded with 900 bags.

The desire to become a seed salesman was planted when Homer was a boy growing up on a New Holland farm. As Homer walked to school, every once in a while he noticed a man drive into his neighbor's farm. Every two years, the man had a new car.

Curious, Homer asked who the man was and was told he was a seed salesman. From that moment on, Homer knew what he wanted to do.

He has not been disappointed. About every two years, Wilken Seeds gives him a new station wagon.

But Homer is in the business for more than the car. He thrives on the person-to-person contact with his customers in 11 counties.

In addition to advice on growing beans, farmers look to Homer for market quotes and the latest scientific studies.

Married for 52 years, Homer and Mary have a real partnership.

"I work for her one day a week," Homer said. However, his wife replied, "He's mine six days a week."

After working 14 years in a school cafeteria and 10 years in a deli, Mary helped at a market stand at Green Dragon, where she took over ownership several years ago. Quilting, sewing, crocheting, and other handicrafts fill her time.

Mary grew up across from the Mennonite Central Committee (MCC), where she often helped packed boxes for relief in other countries. Since then, MCC has always played a vital role in their lives. Many of their home furnishings are purchased from MCC's Ten Thousand Villages.

The couple has traveled in every state but Alaska and in Europe and South America.

They enjoy collecting antiques and sometimes set up their own stand at flea markets. They also enjoy reading, hiking, and attending auctions.

Homer is a member of the Ephrata Area Young Farmers' Association where he received an outstanding community service award. Homer holds devotional talks at community senior citizen meetings. He also participated in a Pennsylvania Dutch video that is used for television programing.

Homer has served as minister of Haaks United Zion for 19 years, where "I help tie the knot and bury the dead," he said.

Although the Martins are in their 70s, they are not ready to retire. "I don't like to sit down and not do anything," Homer said. "I can still unload 2½ tons of 100-pound bags."

Here are some of Mary's recommended soybean recipes that she uses from the "More With Less" Cookbook published by MCC.

SOYBEAN SALAD

Combine in bowl:
1½ cups cooked soybeans, drained
½ cup diced celery
½ cup diced carrots
1 teaspoon minced onion
½ cup diced cheese
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
¼ cup chopped sweet pickles

Cover and chill thoroughly. Combine:
½ cup French dressing
1 tablespoon mayonnaise

Pour mixture over soybean mixture, toss, and chill one hour or longer.

SOYBEAN LOAF

Combine in large bowl:
2½ cups cooked and mashed soybeans
½ cup cottage cheese
½ cup fresh or cooked tomatoes, drained, chopped
2 eggs
2 tablespoons oil
1½ teaspoons salt
½ cup bread crumbs

Mix well, form into a loaf and place on greased baking pan. Pour on a 10-ounce can of cream of mushroom soup. Bake one hour.

Homer and Mary Martin have a small farm on the fringes of Stevens. In addition to feed sales and standholders at Green Dragon, the couple have pastored a United Zion church for 50 years.

Homer has accumulated a wall filled with sales awards. His wife claims one framed certificate — a 4-H award for serving as a 4-H leader for 20 years.

SWEET AND SOUR SOYBEANS

Combine in a bowl and set aside:
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
2 tablespoons soy sauce
¼ cup vinegar
½ cup pineapple juice, drained from chunks

Heat in large skillet:
2 tablespoons oil

Add:
1 cup green pepper, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 cup onion, cut in wedges
½ cup carrots, cut in ¼ -inch slices
1 clove garlic, mashed

Stir fry for about 3 minutes until tender crisp. Add:
2 cups cooked soybeans, drained
1 cup pineapple chunks drained
½ cup tomatoes, cut in 1-inch cubes or 2 tablespoons ketchup.

Fry for a few minutes, add sauce ingredients. Cook and stir until mixture boils and all ingredients are coated with sauce (about 2 minutes). Serve over hot rice.

Quilting, crocheting, and other handicrafts occupy any spare moments Mary finds. She made afghans for each of the couple's three children and eight grandchildren and makes a quilt for each one as a wedding present.

WE HAVE STIR AERATOR TO HELP WITH

FLY & ODOR CONTROL

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

Sales Manager's Note: The Chapman's have reluctantly decided to sell this real milky herd of cattle which had averaged up to 18000m one yr ago. The Holsteins have recs over 33000m; Ayrshires with records up to 22000m; Jerseys up to 18000m. These cows are not milking well now, due to poor forages but will definitely respond to good quality feed or pasture. If you need replacements be sure to attend this sale and Help yourself!!!

Apple Growers Vote To Continue Marketing Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that Pennsylvania's apple growers voted to continue the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program for another five years.

"The approval of this referendum indicates that Pennsylvania's apple growers recognize the need to invest in their future markets," said Brosius. "It also demonstrates growers' confidence in the promotional support provided by the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program, its board of directors, and staff."

The referendum was conducted from April 11-April 25.

An impartial committee of individuals representing the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, The Pennsylvania State University Cooperative Extension Service, and the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service counted the ballots on April 30.

Of those voting, 55 percent voted in favor of, and 45 percent voted against continuing the program.

As a result of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act which stipulates that a prorgram will continue when favored by a simple majority of those voting, the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program was approved to continue for another five years.

The state's apple marketing program promotes the sale of Pennsylvania-grown apples and works to expand markets and consumer awareness. Last year's statewide promotion of fresh apples and processed products targeting third and fourth grade students will continue this year, along with increased retail promotions and new point of sale materials.

Loader Increases Tractor Versatility

RACINE, Wis. — From feedlot chores to bale handling, and from snow removal to pallet stacking, the combination of a new, fully integrated L300 loader and a Case IH MX Series Maxuum® tractor provides farmers with solutions for nearly every farming challenge.

The L300 is available factory-installed on new MX Series tractors, or it can be installed at a Case IH dealership.

"Case IH Maxuum tractors are already among the most versatile in the industry, and the new MX Series can now tackle more jobs than ever when teamed with the L300 loader," said Larry Lanie, Case marketing specialist, tractors. "With the many attachments now available for the MX Series tractor and L300 loader combination, there's hardly a task that can't be handled."

Attachments include:

•Loader buckets — Available in three styles for everything from handling feed to moving gravel are heavy-duty 72-inch, heavy-duty 84-inch, and 96-inch material-handling buckets.

•Bale probe — Allows for easy transporation of round bales of hay or straw.

The new, fully integrated Case IH L300 loader comes factory installed or available for retrofit on new MX Series Maxxum® tractors. A wide array of attachments help farmers maximize their return on investment by putting the new loader to work at dozens of tasks, including manure and bale handling, snow removal, and pallet stacking.

•Bale grapple — Makes handling of hay, straw and silage bales easy. This optional four-tine grapple works in tandem with the 84- and 96-inch buckets.

•Pallet forks — Allow for quick, smooth moving and stacking of pallets, crates and other oversized items.

•Manure forks — Help get heavy loads of manure from the pens to the spreader.

•Manure tines — Can be used with the 72- and 84-inch heavy-duty buckets to tackle feedlot chores.

•Dozer blade — Turns MX Series tractors into snow plows, landscapers and material handlers.

•Attach/detach loader — Lets farmers detach loader by simply disconnecting the hydraulic hoses and mid-mount latches. Loader remains parked and poised for quick and easy reattachment.

Changing attachments is almost effortless with the optional quick-attach mounting feature, Lanie said. And, regardless of the attachment or application, farmers will find the L300 loader easy to operate.

"Ergonomic loader controls and three-function joystick make it easier for the operator to concentrate on the work at hand," Lanie said. "Various MX Series tractor features nearly effortless operation, and the loader-cycle times are much faster thanks to the large hydraulic pump that provides 25 gpm to the loader."

Westfalia Names Top North American Dealers

ELK GROVE VILLAGE, Ill. — At their recent North American National Dealer Meeting, Westfalia named Fisher and Thompson, Inc. one of the top three dealers in the United States.

Fisher and Thompson, Inc., Leola, Pa., was founded in 1983. Their 14,000 square-foot facility is in the heart of Lancaster County. They have branch facilities in Mifflinburg and Belleville. With 25 employees, they operate six route trucks and offer both stall barn and parlor equipment.

Recipient's of Westfalia's Top Dealer Award must be in good standing and are evaluated according to their total sales volume of both new products and parts in their trade area. According to Ray Middel, national sales manager for Westfalia, "Fisher and Thompson has demonstrated outstanding commitment to Westfalia and, based on their overall sales volume for 1996, has earned this Top Dealer Award."

Pioneer Uses Technology To Tag Microbes

JOHNSTON, Iowa — Searching for fluorescent needles in a haystack, researchers at Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. have turned on their black lights to discover a unique staining process used to trace individual microbes from application to fermentation.

"Using technology developed at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa, we can 'tag' and identify individual microbes, and utilize new tools and methods that will help us develop better inoculant products," said Dr. Bill Rutherford, Pioneer researcher, Johnston, Iowa. "Until now, we have been unable to take a sample from treated silage and easily find the exact microbes originally added. This discovery is advancing inoculant research significantly and is unique to Pioneer.

"In our inoculant research, we have used various identification methods. However, this process is different. We are no longer just looking at the overall performance of microbes during ensiling to determine what worked," said Rutherford. "Now we are searching for the exact microbes that were in the experimentaly inoculant and determining if they were dispersed throughout the silage. Because each microbe is tagged, we can see the original microbes and also identify their offspring."

The process actually works similar to a black light and fluorescent colors. Red dye is used to tag microbes and then samples are taken from the silage and viewed under a microscope with a filter to pick up the fluorescent color. Although red and green are the common colors, Pioneer researchers have chosen red because it is easier to distinguish from plant material.

Beth Harman, Pioneer inoculant researcher, Johnston, Iowa, strongly believes in this new research tool. "There is a tremendous amount of work in the scientific community on this technique and we have only touched the tip of the iceberg," Harman said. "For example, more than one color could be used that would allow researchers to track the effectiveness of multiple strains during the fermentation process."

Purina Introduces Game Management Products

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Purina Mills, the leader in animal nutrition, has developed two exciting new game management products, Purina Mills Game Fish Chow and Purina Mills Deer & Game Blocks.

Feeding and growing fish can be fun and educational for the whole family. Purina's new Game Fish Chow promotes larger, healthier fish and provides critical nutrients to the water, promoting the growth of phytoplankton, the first link of a pond's food chain.

With 32 percent protein, high levels of fish meal, and an attractant for high palatability, Game Fish Show provides outstanding nutrition for fingerlings. In the proper environment and with the correct diet, fish can convert feed at a 2:1 ratio. Purina Game Fish Chow helps fish grow faster and increases reproductive potential as well. The floating ration also contains vitamin C to help deficiency-related problems and keep fish resistant to disease.

Game Fish Chow is formulated in multi-sized floating particles to provide complete, balanced nutrition for a wide range of fish species and sizes.

Deer have always been a part of the landscape, but sometimes food is scarce and the quality poor and nature needs some help. So Purina Mills has developed a full line of deer feeds, including the new Deer & Game Block.

With 16 percent protein, this convenient, highly palatable feed block provides year-round nutrition to encourage healthy growth, reduce stress from inconsistent nutrition, and can lower fawn mortality. And deer love the sweet, apple flavor.

Producers Urge USDA To Reform Major Packer Use Of Captive Supplies

AMES, Iowa — Joining with a State Attorney's General group calling for USDA to examine competition in the livestock industry, National Farmers Organization submitted a position statement to the USDA that seeks to limit packer use of captive supplies.

The comments, issued in response to the Western Organization of Resource Council's (WORC) USDA proposal to reform anticompetitive practices in the cattle market, address is vitally important issue to America's independent cattlemen: market access.

"Major packers use captive supplies, which is essentially direct ownership, to limit competition and lower prices independent family ranchers receive for their cattle," said National Farmers President Gene Paul.

On behalf of thousands of cattle producers nationwide, National Farmers proposed major packers not be allowed to procure cattle for slaughter by using forward contracts, unless the following specific conditions are met:

•Contracts are available to producers each month of the year

•Delivery occurs a minimum of 15 business days each month

•Contract basis price is negotiated from a historical production cost average as determined by DTN Livestock margins.

"Forward contracting using a basis price is an important tool for producers, which allow them to cashflow their operations," said Paul. Numerous economic studies cited in the WORC proposal substantiate the severe economic impact that direct packer ownership of cattle has on livestock producers.

National Farmers recommended Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman issue rules regulating captive supply procurement methods that would ensure compliance with Section 202 of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

"One of the primary objectives of National Farmers is to assist livestock producers in maintaining their ability to market their products in an open, fair, and truly competitive market," said Paul.

"Competition is the foundation for business in this country, but a level and fair playing field must exist, and America's farmers are looking forward to the USDA improving the situation," said Paul.

Rhino disc mowers feature an easy access cutterbar. The innovative design of the cutterbar allows access to the disc spindle shaft and gear module without disassembly of the entire cutterbar, reducing maintenance costs and downtime. The hardened rock guards are designed to help protect the entire leading edge of the cutterbar from damage and, along with the skid shoes, are easily replaceable. A heavy-duty CAT III & Cat II offset three-point hitch made of 4"x6" thick-wall tubing, is standard to provide dependable service. A safety breakaway system is built in to provide mainframe protection against sudden impacts when mowing. With 5' of blade overlap and blade tip speed of 15,814 RPM, Rhino disc mowers provide a clean, smooth cut. Rugged construction and high performance are two reasons Rhino disc mowers are the ideal choice for fast, efficient grass mowing.

AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE

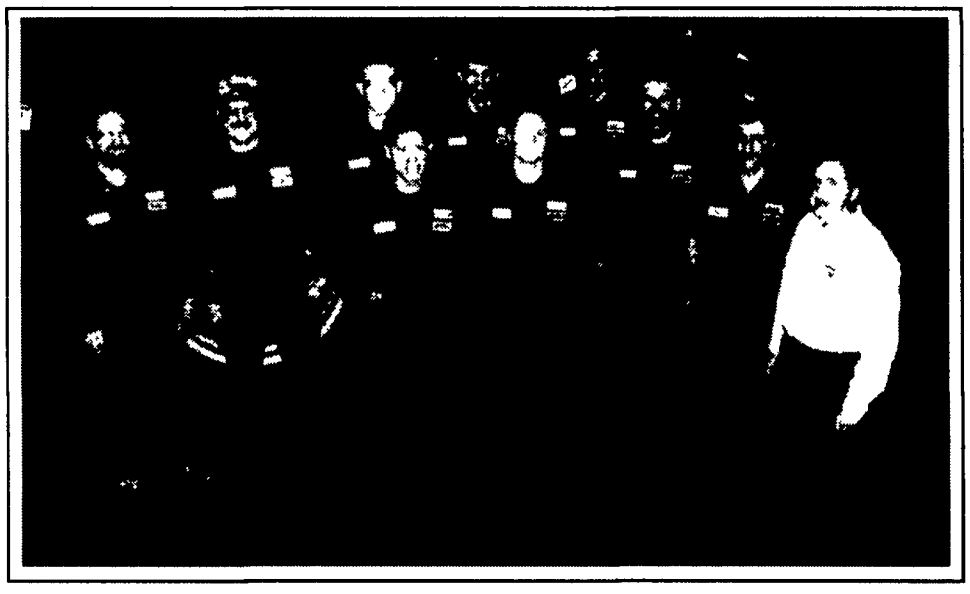
to Case IH AXIAL FLOW Combines

The Axial Flow concept was new in 1977. After twenty years the single rotor design that eliminated straw walkers and increased the threshing and separating area through the use of centrifugal force is still the same. But the technological advances in the 2100 Series make their cousins of 1978 and 1979 seem like antiques.

PRODUCTIVITY, PERFORMANCE, and PREMIUM GRAIN were the hallmarks of the axial flow combine in 1977 and they still are today - - more so because of the steady productivity and performance improvements, made over the past 20 years.



Hoober People are proud of their association with the Case IH Axial Flow combine since the beginning. Our customers know that our commitment to the Axial flow is based upon our ability to make the Axial Flow combine out perform the competition in all crop conditions..

MAKE YOUR NEXT COMBINE AN AXIAL FLOW COMBINE FROM HOOBERS.

A Better Way To Mow

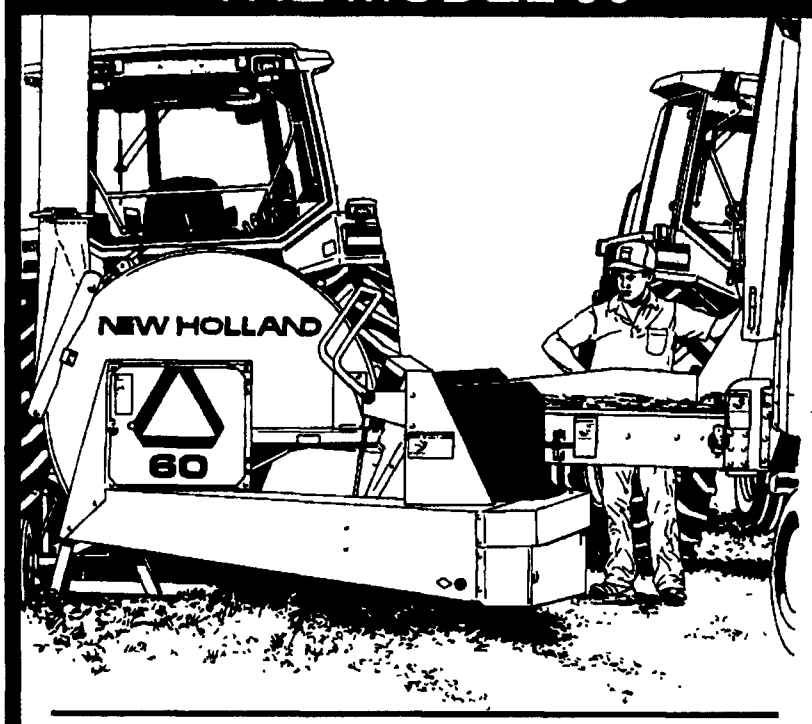
The New Holland Model 1465 Haybine® mower-conditioner features a new header with a five-bat reel for more uniform crop flow. You get a cleaner cut and less scalping in a proven design. And the "1465" can be ordered with a mechanical tongue shift or hydraulic tongue shift. Other great features include:

- A torsion-bar roll-pressure system
- Chevron-design rolls for thorough, gentle conditioning and fast drydown
- 100% bolted knife assemblies

When performance, reliability and durability count, you can count on the "1465".

NEW HOLLAND

THE MODEL 60



It Fills Tall Orders

When you need a big capacity forage blower, you want the Model 60 from New Holland. It features a 540-rpm forage blower built to center-fill silos 100 feet tall. The 37-inch diameter feed hopper makes it easy to unload with cross conveyors.

A large 12-inch auger moves crop to the fan with maximum efficiency. The 60-inch diameter fan is straddle-mounted for years of dependable performance.

Other features include:

- Eight adjustable replaceable paddles
- A heavy-duty, shearbolt protected PTO
- Reversible blower band
- A 9 foot telescoping pipe

When you have a tall order to fill, the Model 60 from New Holland is just the forage blower to fill it. Stop in for details

Reaching the top is easier if you have the AGCO® Allis 7600 tractor pulling you up.

Make Your Way Up Your Own Corporate Ladder.

The 89 PTO hp engine has the power to muscle through most any job. This multi-purpose, row-crop tractor has a standard synchronized transmission with 24 forward and 12 reverse speeds. For your convenience, you can choose between the cab or rops with an optional canopy

- A direct air-cooled diesel engine powers the tractor and delivers maximum strength through the full speed range. So you're able to get more work done using less fuel, doing less shifting and requiring less effort to operate the tractor.
- This also lets you match engine power to ground speeds for more efficient field work
- The AWD models feature true centerline drive shaft for more efficient power transfer and less maintenance.
- Like always, every AGCO Allis tractor comes with a 4-year/ 4,000-hour warranty that's backed by your dealer

To see what the 7600 tractor can do for you, just stop by and see us You'll be surprised at how fast you'll climb.

"MIRACLE GIRL" TELLS HER SECRET

Angie Arnold; "The Miracle Girl" from Noble Oklahoma tells how she gives Vitamix the easy way.

To save time, I mix enough vitamix for several days with equal parts sweet feed or ground corn. I put it near the cow or cows I am going to feed it to. (The ones that have symptoms of a contagious disease or infection like a cold, cough, off their feed, fever, mastitis, virus, etc.) When I go into the barn I give a handful the first thing and another handful every hour or two and one when I leave. I do the same at night or any time I happen to walk into the barn at midday, late evenings or night (at least six times a day). It only takes a minute and is a lot better than using antibiotics. Also you can sell the milk when using Vitamix. Antibiotics damage the immune system. Vitamix feeds the immune system.

I use Vitamix for calves that have scours, cough, colds, chills, fever, etc. Six times a day. I just open his mouth and pour it in with my hand. I put Vitamix in the milk two or three times to all baby calves before they get symptoms (six times a day if they already have symptoms). When I use milk replacer, I use the one that is free of medication.

When my neighbors have a sick pony, calf, lamb or pet I just give them Vitamix; and they call me the "miracle girl". This is the easiest job in the world. You can sit around waiting for a miracle if you want to; but I am going to order some Vitamix. I will get the Vitamix for sure.

If you have a sick horse, cow or calf; call Frank Lampley. Frank is a friend of mine. He will send you some Vitamix today. Just tell him Angie sent you.

My mother works for Frank Lampley in his Oklahoma office and I hear her telling people about Vitamix all the time. They often tell mom Vitamix is a lot better than the newspapers and magazines say it is. If you call before 3 pm EST you can have Vitamix tomorrow.
P.S. Be sure to read and follow the directions or Frank will yell at you.

AG Therm stops the rain and stops the elements. AG for agriculture. Therm for thermal.

It works for all kinds of buildings. No matter who's in it or what's in it. Install it in new buildings or improve old ones. Celotex made it for you. The animals will thank you. For information where to purchase AG Therm, call Celotex at 1-800-556-4215.

Loader Provides Better Self-Leveling Performance

ATLANTA, Ga. — Farmhand provides greater visibility, increased maneuverability, and superior self-leveling performance with the introduction of the GL745 loader.

"To improve visibility and maneuverability, Farmhand uses a low profile design that won't obstruct the operator's view and gives him the ability to move in and out of tight places," said Kevin Lund, marketing manager, Farmhand. "We are the only manufacturer to mount the optional, two-way hydraulic, self-leveling cylinders below the loader's arms to give the operator fast, efficient leveling action."

For improved visibility and maneuverability, Farmhand introduces the GL745 loader with optional, two-way hydraulic, self leveling.

The optional, field-installed, self-leveling system on the Farmhand GL745 is simple and trouble free. The 2-way hydraulic system automatically levels the attachment throughout the lift and lower cycles by moving oil to and from the self-leveling cylinders and the tilt cylinders.

Designed to fit up to 120 hp 2WD tractors and 90 hp FWA tractors, the Farmhand GL745 has a lift capacity of 3,100 pounds and a lift height of 11 feet 8 inches. The loader has a typical digging depth of 6 inches, a 23° attachment rollback angle, and a 40° maximum dump angle.

The Farmhand GL745 loaders come with a standard Attachment Quick Coupler (AQC) for quick mounting of attachments. Optional attachments for the GL745 are pallet forks, combination buckets, heavy-duty buckets, single- and double-prong bale spears and manure forks.

Case Acquires Site-Specific Software Firm

RACINE, Wis. — In a move that bolsters its position as a leader in agricultural technology, Case Corporation has acquired Agri-Logic, an innovative developer of software in the emerging market for precision farming.

Agri-Logic's easy-to-use software gives farmers greater options and data in managing fields for maximum profit. The acquisition will enhance Case's Advanced Farming Systems (AFS) line of products aimed at improving the productivity of customers practicing precision, or site-specific, farming.

Agri-Logic's lineup of crop history, yield mapping, and weed control software represents a valuable farming tool. It provides strategic information that farmers use in making decisions on tillage practices, seed varieties, herbicides, rates of nitrogen, and preferred planting dates.

Agri-Logic's Instant Yield Maps give farmers four separate ways to visualize yields. The Yield Maps and Instant Survey Professional software programs are recognized for their widespread compatibility with other industry programs.

Recently, Agri-Logic distinguished itself by introducing the first mapping software for hand-held computers equipped with Microsoft's new Windows CE operating system.

"This new hand-held computer mapping software is a major innovation, both for agriculture and other industries," said Jim Stoddart, vice president, Case IH Advanced Farming Systems.

Case purchased Agri-Logic from Fluid Power Industries. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

Agriculture Department Leads Delegation To Mexico

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Eight Pennsylvania companies traveled to the Mexican state of Hidalgo recently to visit agriculture industries and expand trade opportunities between Pennsylvania and Mexico, Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius said.

"With exports to Mexico growing more rapidly than other export markets, we feel it is important to open discussions with our counterparts in Mexico," Brosius said. "The delegation from Pennsylvania will be fulfilling the Ridge Administration's commitment to help our producers and manufacturers be competitive in the world market.

"The emphasis for this visit will be on livestock and agricultural equipment, and will be, in part, a follow-up to contacts established during the first two International Days held as part of the Pennsylvania Farm Show in 1996 and 1997."

Mexico was the sixth leading destination for Pennsylvania's agricultural exports in 1995, and is the third in the purchase of food and kindred products.

"Clearly Pennsylvania needs to be a part of this expanding market," Brosius said.

Participants will spend three days meeting with both buyers and companies and with government agricultural officials.

They were hosted by the governor of the state of Hidalgo at an official reception Monday evening. This will be the first official delegation from the Agriculture Department under the Ridge Administration.

Participating will be:

- Armstrong Farms, Saxonburg, Butler County (beef cattle and artificial insemination);
- Creekbottom Farms, Middleburg, Snyder County (Holstein production and sales);
- EM Tran Inc., Elizabethtown, Lancaster County (dairy embryos);
- EPL Technologies Inc., Philadelphia, (Microperforated packaging, fresh processing aids and food safety programs);
- Farmer Boy Ag Systems Inc., Myerstown, Lebanon County (swine and poultry complexes, hog confinement equipment, feeding and watering equipment, cooling and ventilation systems);
- Johnson Livestock Sales, Landisburg, Perry County (Holstein sales);
- RPM Farms, Inc., Beavertown, Snyder County (swine production and sales);

Willier Inc., Lititz, Lancaster County (Holstein sales).

Pennsylvania agricultural exports last year totaled $923.4 million, about six percent of the commonwealth's total export sales. Food and lumber represent the largest portion of export sales. Livestock sales represent about two percent or the total sales.

PCA Presents Awards, Scholarships

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The 23rd Annual Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Awards Banquet and membership meeting were held recently in conjunction with three days of sales and activities for the 1997 Pennsylvania Beef Expo.

President Ollie Weiss was the master of ceremonies of the banquet which concluded with the annual "fun" auction to raise monies for the state organization's National Cattlemen's Beef Association affiliate dues.

The 1997 Cattlemen's Queen Melissa Leiden of Cambria County was crowned by outgoing Queen Roxanne Kirst. Melissa was also the recipient of the 1997 Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Scholarship Award presented by past president Bob Hay. She is a family and consumer science major at Indiana University of Pennsylvania and assisted in beef promotion activities as PCA princess during 1996.

Roxanne Kirst was the recipient of the first Pfizer/Dectomax Scholarship Award presented by Pfizer representative Dan Hughes. A food science major at Penn State, Roxanne served as cattlemen's queen for 1995 and 1996.

Kristine Schraeder, on behalf of Merck Agvet, awarded the first Merck Generations of Excellence Scholarship to Jessica "Bree" Taggert who is a sophomore in agribusiness at the Fayette Campus of Penn State University.

The 1997 Beef Industry Service Award was presented to Dr. John Comerford, beef cattle extension specialist at Penn State University. "John puts a lot of time and effort forth for the beef industry," said Bob Hay in presenting the award. He cited the Pennsylvania feeder calf (preconditioned) roundup program, dairy-beef education programs, and the variety of educational efforts Comerford has launched to aid cow/calf operators in the management of small herds. He also has developed and conducted programs for cattle feeders and research with forage utilization, by-product feeds, and calf health.

Dr. Lowell L. Wilson, secretary of PCA and Penn State professor of animal science, presented the 1997 Commercial Cattleman of the Year Award to Woody Zook, emphasizing the strides Zook has taken with the grazing system on his cow/calf farm and his sharing of information with other producers.

John and Kathy Allen of Armstrong Farm in Butler County were named in 1997 Seedstock Breeder of the Year. Fellow Shorthorn breeder and 1996 recipient Dick McElhaney presented the award, noting the work the Allens have achieved in A.I. and embryo transfers as well as their record-keeping system. The Allens are sixth generation cattle producers on their 800-acre farm.

Cattle Feeder of the Year was awarded to Creek Land Farm in Armstrong County. The 1996 recipient Robert Barley presented the award to brothers Peter and Andrew Kimmel who are the third generation of cattle feeders on the farm. The kimmels finish approximately 600 heifers annually on silage and roller-mill corn. They farm with their father Chris Kimmel, a master farmer and charter member of the Indiana/Armstrong County Cattlemen's Association.

The Environmental Stewardship Award for 1997 was presented to Bill and Judy Iams of Washington County. The Iams raise registered Angus and crossbred cattle on their 435-acre farm which utilizes contour strips, no-till seeding, and 25 rotational grazing paddocks.

The membership voted in five new PCA directors to serve 1997-2000. They are: Kathy Allen, Butler County; Larry Bullis, Adams County; Erskine Cash, Centre County; Ken Foust, Adams County; and Bob Hay, Somerset County.

More than 120 cattle producers attended the awards banquet at the Toftrees Resort which culminated with the surprise presentation of a "Special Appreciation Award" to PCA Secretary Dr. Lowell Wilson and his wife Mary. Wilson has served as secretary of PCA for more than 20 years and was instrumental in founding PCA and the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

In accepting the award, Wilson responded, "Probably no other award should be shared with more people than this one.

Following the traditional beef meal and awards presentations, Fun Auction organizer Mary Grimes got the show on the road with many new and interesting items to bid on this year. More information about the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and its programs can be obtained from PCA, 2017 Halfmoon Valley Road, Port Matilda, PA 16870, (814) 692-4208.

NOTHING WORKS LIKE A SILO

"HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding. So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

"PROTECT YOUR CORN FROM THE HEAT."

These farmers from Virginia "switched" to our poured concrete silo to store their shelled corn and said: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture corn ever." (Cave View Farm, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.)

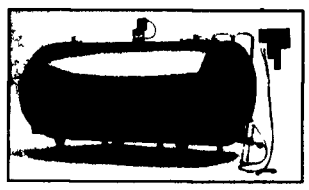
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ 08 kW for 12 000 Lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total opertating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$2,300
